SENATE VOTES BONUS; VETO IS NEAR

EMPLOYMENT GROUP HERE TO BE DISBANDED

Committee, Formed in November, Heeds Chairman's Plea.

SMALLER EXECUTIVE BODY TO BE CHOSEN

Economic Crisis Past and Normalcy Is Near, Delano Predicts.

The District of Columbia committee on employment voted to disband yesterday afternoon on a proposal made by Chairman Frederic A. Delano which followed his lengthy review of the organization's accomplishments since it was organized last November. A motion adopted by the group provides, however, that a smaller executive group be named by the District Commissioners.

Declaring that the economic emergency is not yet over nor is there any indication when it will end, Dr. Porter Lee, aid to Col. Arthur Woods, who is head of the national committee on employment, pleaded with the Capitol group not to disorganize at present.

The motion which conditions the committee's action calls for the reappointment of a group of from nine to fifteen representatives of the present committee to serve as an executive group which might call together, if necessary, the larger body which will disband as soon as the appointments are made.

Sees Turning Point.

In recommending such action, Mr. Delano said that the turning point in Washington's economic crisis has been reached and predicted that spring would find the city well on the road to normalcy.

Spring will likely bring some improvement in employment, Dr. Lee admitted, as it usually does, but unless the country prepares against it next fall and winter are likely to see more widespread suffering and a greater depression than was evident this season.

Even if business becomes more stabalized this year, he said, it will be a long time before it can absorb the large number of able-bodied men and women now idle.

Looks to Next Fall.

The unemployed will be doubly handicapped next fall, he predicted.

Redmond Stephens Is Killed by Train

Former Assistant Budget Director Is Victim at French Lick.

Chicago, Feb. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Redmond D. Stephens, former social light and successful lawyer, met an obscure death a few days ago at French Lick, which was not made known to his Chicago friends until today. He was 56, former captain in the war and assistant director of the budget in Washington during the Harding administration.

He first married Marian Ream, daughter of Norman B. Ream. She inherited $40,000,000. She divorced Stephens in 1918 on charges of desertion. His second wife was Edna Davis Stephens, of California. She divorced him in 1929 on charges of cruelty.

Stephens was accompanied to French Lick by Mrs. Vivian Gabarini, of Naples, who acted as his secretary. She said they were about to be married and that he appeared to suffer an attack of vertigo and fell from the platform at French Lick Springs. He was killed by an approaching train.

A romance that budded in George Washington University blossomed in Towson, Md., early today when Geraldine Floy Free, daughter of Representative Arthur M. Free, of California, was married to Thomas P. Littlepage, jr., son of a prominent lawyer and clubman.

The surprised parents of the elopers were notified of the marriage early today, but not until the couple was wedded by the Rev. Richard W. Wickes, pastor of the Towson Baptist Church. When they had recovered from their surprise they gave the parental blessing to the couple.

DAVIS MAY ESCAPE SENATE SEAT FIGHT

Nye Now Doubts Propriety of Trying to Oust Pennsylvanian.

SLUSH LAID TO OTHERS

(Associated Press.)

Senator Davis of Pennsylvania may not have to face a contest over his seat after all. Chairman Nye, of the Senate campaign funds committee, said yesterday he was not as certain as he "once was" of the "propriety" of such a contest against the former Labor Secretary.

He added he was "doubtful" about introducing a resolution asking expulsion of Senator Davis on the grounds of excessive campaign expenditures in the Pennsylvania elections of last year.

His future course, he said, would remain undetermined until other members of the Senate have had a chance to digest a report on the Davis investigation.

The report will be submitted to the entire committee today, and Senator Nye predicted its presentation to the Senate before the end of the week. The report is in the nature of a resume of the testimony given the committee and will make no recommendations.

It had been Senator Nye's intention to introduce his resolution soon after the Senate received the committee report. The North Dakotan said he would give an opportunity to any other senator to move the expulsion of Senator Davis, but added he did not know of any one who would take that action.

Senator Nye gave no specific reason for his change of attitude, but point-

E. E. DUPONT'S WIFE FOUND DEAD OF GAS

Husband Discovers Body in Her Studio on Estate Near Wilmington.

AUTO FUMES BLAMED

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Eugene E. Dupont, 45, was found dead in her studio today at Dogwood, the Dupont estate in Greenville, near here. Police, after a preliminary investigation, said death had been caused by carbon monoxide gas.

Mrs. Dupont, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Moxham, of Bullet County, Ky., had driven to her studio and left her car, with the motor running, in the garage under the studio.

Some time later her husband entered the studio and found her body on the floor. He said she apparently had been engaged in decorating a chair when overcome by the monoxide fumes, which filled the room as well as the garage. In addition to her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. George Weymouth, Phyllis and Nancy Dupont—and one son, Merton.

Mr. Dupont is president of the Delaware Motor Sales Co. and a director in E. I. DuPont De Nemours & Co.

"Check Kiting" Is Laid To Luke Lea by Cashier

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—W. S. Chappell, cashier of the defunct Liberty Bank & Trust Co., today told the legislative investigating committee that Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, engaged in "check kiting" against the bank for millions of dollars before the bank crashed on November 13, 1930, and the suicide of the president, R. E. Donnell.

Adele Ritchie, Long Dead, Is Found Guilty of Murder

Court Makes Decision in Ruling Her Estate Can Not Receive Legacy From Society Woman Actress Slew in Laguna Beach Cottage.

Santa Ana, Calif., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Adele Ritchie, in her grave nearly a year since she killed her intimate friend, Doris Murray Palmer, and took her own life in a cottage among the artists at Laguna Beach, Calif., was found guilty of murder today by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel.

On that decision, the estate of the beautiful actress who, two decades ago, was the "Dresden china doll" of the musical comedy stage and later the wife of the actor, Guy Bates Post, was denied a claim on a legacy willed to her by Mrs. Palmer.

The case, in which Miss Ritchie virtually was called from the grave and tried for the slaying, was without precedent here. The action was brought by executors of her estate in an attempt to claim the proceeds of a $1,000 insurance policy and $500 in jewelry which Mrs. Palmer, a society leader at Laguna Beach, had left to the actress. It was opposed by Mrs. Palmer's relatives on the ground a murderer can not benefit from the estate of her victim.

Judge Scovel agreed with the Palmer relatives. They asserted that Mrs. Palmer was taken to Miss Ritchie's cottage and slain. A coroner's jury had found the act was committed in a fit of jealousy over the social prestige won from the actress by the young divorcee.

Numerous witnesses were called before Judge Scovel to tell of details in the lives of the two women and

WIRE-TAPPING IS APPROVED AS AID TO JUSTICE

Attorney General Mitchell Advises Limited Use of Expedient.

PROHIBITION BUREAU ALLOWED PRIVILEGE

House Expenditures Body Is Told Phone Supervision Is Quite General.

(Associated Press.)

The limited use of wire-tapping by all Justice Department enforcement agencies—including the Prohibition Bureau—was approved yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell.

He told the House expenditures committee of a new wire-tapping order issued on January 19, four days after the committee adopted a resolution ordering its present inquiry into the practice.

Before that time, Mr. Mitchell said, a bureau of investigation regulation had prohibited wire-tapping, and agents who violated the rule were subject to dismissal. The Prohibition Bureau, however, had no such regulation.

Caution Is Advised.

In his new order, the Attorney General told an assistant, G. Aaron Youngquist, that "the present condition in the department can not continue." He instructed that wire-tapping be permitted only in "specific cases" after it had been approved by the head of the bureau involved and the Assistant Attorney General in charge.

"I was not prepared, on January 19 to lay down an ironclad rule, and I am not prepared to do that now," he told the committee. Prohibition Director Woodcock subsequently approved the new regulation.

"Has wire-tapping in any particular case been approved by the Prohibition Bureau since that order?" Representative Montet (Democrat), Louisiana, asked.

Three Cases Approved.

"Yes, in three cases," Mr. Youngquist replied. "I approved three in the absence of Mr. Woodcock."

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, an antiprohibitionist, was author of the committee resolution which brought the investigation. When Mr. Mitchell finished his testimony, Mr. Schafer said he wanted to "congratulate the Attorney General on his order of January 19."

Earlier, Mr. Schafer had insisted the new regulations should carry the stipulation that agents who tap wires without permission of their superiors would be dismissed.

Provision Not Required.

"That sort of a provision is not necessary," Mr. Mitchell said. "If we have regulations and an agent does not obey them, dismisal is the natural result."

Mr. Mitchell made clear his opinion that "wire-tapping as a general practice ought not be permitted." He said that since law violators were using every means possible to avoid detection, the law enforcement forces should not be handicapped by flat regulations.

"I would prefer to deal with individual cases," he testified.

Mr. Schafer frequently had criticized the Prohibition Bureau for tap-

PRICE OF FOOD TO CONSUMERS HELD TOO HIGH

Reductions in Rates of Farmers Not Passed On, Capper Says.

CITIES PAY TOO MUCH FOR MEAT, IS CHARGE

Senate Committee Ends Its Public Hearings on Living Expenses.

Reduction in prices to producers has not been reflected in prices charged consumers for milk, bread and meats in Washington and other cities throughout the country, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate food price investigating committee, declared at the conclusion of public hearings by the committee yesterday.

That fact, the senator said, "has been clearly demonstrated."

Senator Lynn J. Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, also added that that was his judgment, too.

Farmers Get Little.

"The committee's investigation," Chairman Capper said, "has established the fact that bread prices in many cities are too high. The low prices the farmers are receiving for their wheat and the low prices the millers are receiving for their flour have not been reflected in the prices charged consumers for bread and this is true notably in Washington.

"Promises the committee has received and public announcements already made indicate that the bread price situation in Washington is to be remedied. If the committee's investigation resulted in nothing more than that its work would be justified.

"Facts developed before the committee through the testimony of witnesses are proof of our contention that advantage is being taken of producer and consumer.

Good for Consumers.

"Milk prices undoubtedly are high in some cities. In Washington, I believe, they have been a little too high, but the situation here is not as bad as in other cities. The producers are

Coolidge Rumored For $1,000,000 Job

Plan Would Give Five-Year Contract to Organize Dairy Interests.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—New England dairymen today launched a movement for the selection of a "Czar" of the milk industry to help them iron out their economic and other problems.

Edward Shattuck, former State representative of Andover, made the proposal to 800 meeting here to discuss matters connected with the dairy business. He proposed that the "ablest man in New England, known to every man, woman and child," be engaged to organize them on a five-year's contract to total $1,000,000.

The name of Calvin Coolidge did not reach the records of the meeting nor would Shattuck say he had the former President of the United States in mind. Yet word went around the hall and out to the press that Mr. Coolidge was the man.

BLONDE BANDIT'S KIN PLEAD FOR HER LIFE

BROTHER KILLED, CLAIM

Newcastle, Pa., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The revelation that two men instead of one were fatally wounded in the shooting that brought death sentences to Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, together with search for a pawned revolver in Fort Worth, Tex., and a last plea to the governor by relatives today were developments as the condemned pair neared the hour set for their electrocution.

The whereabouts of Tom Crawford, brother of Mrs. Schroeder, one of mystery since the December day in 1929 when Highway Patrolman Brady Paul was shot down near here as the policeman and a brother officer stopped an automobile in which the woman, Dague and Crawford were riding, was believed cleared up in a confession by Dague.

He told his wife, who was paying a final visit to her husband's cell, that Crawford was fatally shot during an exchange of shots with the officers. Crawford, he said, was not taken to a physician and he died as the three fled southward through West Virginia. Burial was made secretly along a highway.

The pistol was sought by counsel, who said a stay of execution, set for Monday, would be asked while a search was conducted for the weapon. Witnesses at the woman's trial said she carried a .32-caliber revolver. Paul was shot with a .38. Attorney Ben Jarrett said the gun was wanted to prove the defense contention that Mrs. Schroeder did not fire the fatal shot.

A direct appeal was made to Gov. Gifford Pinchot at Harrisburg this afternoon by Mrs. Schroeder's father,

HOSPITAL PAY ROLL SUSPECT ARRESTED

Law Reaches From Here to California to Seize Accused Man.

PENNILESS WHEN TAKEN

The arm of the law stretched clear across the continent yesterday to ensnare a 30 year old man sought here in connection with the theft of a $7,000 pay roll from the Children's Hospital. The end of the search found the man penniless, police from San Diego wired, and willing to return here without the formality of extradition papers.

A police circular, issued to every city and town in the country in August resulted in the capture. The besought man, Walter O. Jones, was allegedly identified as the man who snatched the satchel containing the money and fled with it to a waiting automobile where a confederate quickly got the car under way and escaped.

Jones was picked up in San Diego on a trivial cause, and in the routine business of cataloguing all prisoners was found to be the man wanted here. He did not admit any connection with the case, A. R. Hill, chief of police, of San Diego declared in his wire.

Miss Eleanor Page, assistant treasurer of the hospital, was returning to the institution with a brief case containing the July pay roll, which was made up of $4,000 in currency and $3,000 in checks. As she stepped from her car on Twelfth street near W street, she was violently seized and thrown to the ground, and, although she offered resistance, the bandit secured the brief case.

The machine number was noted by Miss Page, and the car was later found abandoned near Twenty-third and Champlain streets northwest. It had previously been reported stolen by Raymond B. Hess, of Walter Reed Hospital.

Miss Page was called to police headquarters, where she is said to have picked out a picture of Jones as a man who resembled the bandit. She did not see enough of the bandit in the car to describe him, police said.

VETERANS' BILL IS PUT THROUGH BY 72-12 COUNT

Measure Will Be Signed Today and Rushed to President.

WHITE HOUSE PLANS EARLY DISAPPROVAL

Repassage Over Hoover Protest Is Assured by Leaders.

APPROPRIATION BILLS FILIBUSTER MENACE

Reed and Treasury Assailed During Debate; Victory Draws Applause.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Yanks yesterday captured the Senate and planted their so-called bonus bill there by a vote of 72 to 12. But the Senate talked so long about it before acting that it inadvertently gave the President a weapon by which he can kill the measure, a weapon which the White House later made known, however, it would not use.

Instead, it was said that the President would veto the bill within 48 hours, thus giving Congress an opportunity to override him, which both Senate and House leaders concede will be done.

Adjournment of the House about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, while the Senate was still talking, prevented the bill from going to the President until today, because of the rule that it must be signed by Speaker Longworth in the presence of the House.

Could Wait Until March 4.

The President, receiving the measure today will have, according to an interpretation of the Constitution by Charles Watkins, Senate parliamentarian, until noon March 4 to veto it. If he does not do so by that time it becomes a law without his signature.

But the great weapon that is given him came in the possibility of his taking no action until say within five minutes of noon and then vetoing it. It would be a physical impossibility then for it to be returned to the Capitol and both houses vote upon it again. All of this, though, is considered beyond the point, as aside from the statement that no such action would be taken, final passage has been effected of only two appropriation bills so far and a filibuster against the others would undoubtedly develop if any evidence appeared of Congress not getting another vote on the veterans' bill.

Thirty-four Republicans, the one Farmer-Laborite, and 37 Democrats voted for the bill, which was passed in the identical form in which it was passed by the House. One Democrat, King of Utah, was paired against it.

Three Speak Against Bill.

The only spoken opposition to the measure came from two men who served in France, Senator Reed, who served with the Artillery and Hiram Bingham, who served in the Air Service, and from Gillette, of Massachusetts.

Reed's vigorous opposition drew such an attack from proponents of the measure to the effect that "he has never said 'yes' to proposed veterans' legislation," that Senator Jones, perhaps the most conscientious man in the Senate and a proponent, was moved to call attention to Reed's service.

Reed, asserting that the Treasury is now facing a deficit of $500,000,000 and that the next income tax returns "will stagger us," described the bill as "an indiscriminate handout." Eighty per cent of the veterans

Calvin Coolidge

Says: One of our most beneficial institutions is the town meeting. Each springtime sees it flourish all over rural New England from whence it spread to other parts of the Nation. In this region it goes back to the cabin of the Mayflower where before the final landing of the pilgrims they adopted the compact which was the forerunner of our written constitutions. For more than twenty years the town meeting was supreme legislative and judicial authority in the Plymouth colony. No more effective instrument for demonstrating the principle of equality and liberty and teaching the art of self-government has been devised. When the people of a State who are qualified voters can meet together on a common footing in assemblies of moderate size and there, after due deliberation, choose their own magistrates, impose their own taxes and appropriate their own money they have provided themselves with the firmest foundation of government and the best guarantees of liberty. Such gatherings afford the finest training in the practical elements of citizenship. By placing both the power and responsibility solely in their hands the town meeting demonstrates to the people that this is their country and their Government.

Sale of Palestine Girls Into Slavery Is Charged

Practice in Operation Throughout Country, Says Newspaper; Some of 10 Years and Under Reported "Hired Out" for $5 Yearly.

Jerusalem, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The Arab newspaper Al Hayat charged today that the practice of young girls being sold into virtual slavery is in operation in Palestine.

This, says the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, follows upon the sensational allegation made in Arab circles last December that about 30 girls of the Gazawieh Tribe, of Transjordania, sojourning near Beisan in the Jordan Valley, had been sold by their fathers to masters and "husbands" in a number of towns.

Al Hayat's story is in the form of an open letter to the high commissioner from Hassan, Sidky el Dajani, who charges that it is not unusual for Arab girls of 10 years of age, and even under, to be "hired out" for as long as 25 years at the rate of $5 a year.

The letter is in part as follows:

"The fellah sometimes has to sell his daughters as slaves at the cheapest price in order to use the money to keep body and soul together and to keep his wife alive. I have seen with my own eyes a thing of which I will tell you. A man stopped us as we were motoring to Haifa and said to the driver, 'I have a little girl with me. We want to go to Bireh, near Ramallah. Have you any room?'

"The driver said he had room and the man brought back a young peasant child, not more than 8 years old. Her clothes were ragged and she was who die, he declared, "leave only these adjusted service certificates," and 90 per cent who borrow on them pay back neither the interest nor principal.

Sees Surrender of Insurance.

On this he based his contention that the measure which permits a holder of a certificate to borrow up to 50 per cent of its face value meant that the veterans taking advantage of it were virtually surrendering their endowment insurance as the 4½ per cent interest to be charged will eat up the remainder of the certificate by 1945, the maturity date, if the loan is no repaid.

Walsh, of Massachusetts, although he voted for the bill, also deprecated this feature. He wanted the veterans in need to be given without interest charge 7-20 per cent of the face value of their certificates.

Senator Reed recited the "general measures" which the Government has already taken in behalf of the veterans, the war risk insurance and the disability act, the latter of which Senator Reed described as "so liberal it is absurd."

Jones Defends Pennsylvanian.

It was on this recitation that Senators Cutting, of New Mexico, and Steiwar, of Oregon, challenged the Pennsylvanian, and recalled that almost invariably he had been against the legislation cited; that it was through no effort of his that it had been enacted. "He always says 'no;' he never says 'yes,'" complained Mr. Steiwar.

When Senator Jones arose he said he had the highest regard for Senator Reed, and "I don't think his motives can be questioned."

"He is one of the few men of this body who demonstrated his patriotism at the battlefront," said Senator Jones.

Senator Bingham described the bill "as a raid upon the Treasury," but he was checked when he brought Abraham Lincoln's name into his argument.

Senator Copeland, of New York, interjected that Lincoln "accepted a bounty for his soldiers."

Senator Copeland subsequently insisted that Secretary Mellon's wealth grew out of a grant given for service in the Revolutionary War, a grant to Gen. O'Hara. Washington, too, received a grant, Senator Copeland said.

Harrison Hits Treasury.

Senator Steiwar also spoke of a veteran and to offset, he said, the impression created by Senators Reed and Bingham that the majority of the veterans do not want the bonus.

Senator Pat Harrison directed his fire at the Treasury for "attempting to create an atmosphere of uncertainty" in the financial markets.

"It does not behoove Treasury officials," he declared, "to try to create this atmosphere of uncertainty." He declared that bonds had gone up that very morning. He declared that the bill should not cost more than $500,000,000 at most and he agreed with Senator Vandenberg, sponsor of the Senate bill, and who, incidentally, touched off the spark that brought forth the bill, that no tax increase or bond issue would be necessary.

Harrison attacked the Treasury for saddling upon the country the burden of too quick retirement of the national debt, when the debts of other countries to this country have been refunded at such low rates of interest and over such long periods.

Orderly Retirement Favored.

An "orderly" retirement of the debt would preclude any tax increase, he declared.

Several of the senators attacked the high rate of interest to be charged for the loans in view of the Government's ability to obtain money much cheaper but said they would vote for the bill without change so it could go immediately to the White House and not be subjected to the possibility of a pocket veto. Yet as a number of them gave this explanation the word had already been passed that the House had adjourned and that the measure was even then in a state tantamount to the pocket veto possibility.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, finally pointed this out and argued that instead of this being a bad bargain for the Treasury it should be a god one, as the Government would make money by borrowing money at 1½ and 2 per cent and lending at 4½.

Feared to Change Interest.

Senator Vandenberg pointed out, however, that to tamper with the interest provision would involve virtual rewriting of the entire bill, as it was built around the interest rate.

The galleries were as crowded, comparatively speaking, as those in the House when it passed the bill, 363 to 39, and when it was passed there was applause both in the galleries and on the floor.

When it was all over Senator Reed thought the Senate might be in the mood to pass a bill giving Director General Hines, of the Veterans' Bureau, retirement pay at the end of 30 years' service in the Government. And the Senate was probably in the mood, but Senator Trammell could not understand it and objected.

Hines Will Favor Veterans in Need

Administrator Intends to Give Priority if Bill Becomes Law.

(Associated Press.)

Veterans' Administrator Hines intends to give priority to veterans in distress if the bill passed last night by Congress allowing loans on the compensation certificates becomes law.

Senator Steiwer (Republican), Oregon, relayed this information to the Senate yesterday after a conversation with the administrator.

If the legislation becomes law it is expected to require a little time to put the loans in operation although the machinery for that is already installed in the Veterans' Bureau. Applications for loans would be in order immediately.

Alan E. Gray Named Head of State Society

William G. Norton, counsel for the Federal Farm Board; A. G. Divet, special assistant to the attorney general, and former Representative P. D. Norton addressed the society. Guests included Senator and Mrs. Lynn J. Frazier, Senator and Mrs. Gerald P. Nye, Representatives J. H. Sinclair and O. B. HOSPITAL MEASURE SPEEDED IN SENATE

$20,877,000 Proposal for Veterans Is Reported by Committee.

ALLOWANCE CUT SCORED

(Associated Press.)

Another veterans' relief measure was speeded on its way through the legislative mill yesterday with the reporting by the Senate finance committee of the Smoot bill to authorize a $20,877,000 appropriation for hospital construction in the next four years.

The measure was submitted to the Senate as a substitute for the House bills passed this week to authorize $12,500,000 for such construction and $2,850,000 for extension of soldiers' homes.

It carries provision for a 50 per cent reduction in World War veterans' allowances while undergoing hospital treatment. This proposal was advanced by Veterans' Administrator Hines as a step to discourage young veterans from remaining in institutions after they are cured. It is simlar to laws relating to Civil and Spanish War veterans.

Discretion With Board.

The finance committee decided to leave to the discretion of the Federal Hospitalization Board and the President the locations of the hospitals and additions. Hines and members of the committee held this procedure would avoid delay and controversy in Congress.

Watson Miller, chairman of the rehabilitation committee of the American Legion took issue with this contention, arguing more "violent scrapping" would result if the locations were left to the hospitalization board.

He also opposed the 50 per cent cut in allowances, saying this required more study and should be put off until the next Congress.

Versed in Hospitalization.

The committee, in reporting the measure, said it believed the "location of the new hospitals and homes and the additions to existing hospitals and homes can better be left to the discretion of the board, with the approval of the President."

"This board," the report added, "is composed of outstanding men thoroughly versed in the subject of hospitalization and domiciliary care, and after comprehensive study will be in a position to best locate facilities authorized in this bill where they are most needed."

The measure contemplates 6,000 additional beds by 1935. Gen. Hines' tentative program would place them in twelve new hospitals and in additions to 26 existing institutions.

$10,000,000 Added To Naval Measure

Provides for Starting Work on 11 New Destroyers; Other Increases.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate appropriations committee yesterday added $10,000,000 to the Navy appropriations bill as passed by the House for beginning work on eleven new destroyers authorized in the 1916 building program.

This would be in addition to the larger building project provided for in the pending naval construction measure designed to authorize building under the London Naval Treaty.

In reporting the supply bill to the Senate, the appropriations committee also added $200,000 for experimental and research work in connection with the development of a metal-clad airship. It decreased by $226,470 the amount proposed by the House for naval aviation by providing for 70 instead of 140 reserve aviators with the fleet.

The total carried in the bill now is $358,150,482 as compared with $348,051,932 approved by the House.

Copeland and Wagner Deny McFadden Charge

Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner took the floor on a point of personal privilege yesterday and entered sweeping denial of the charges of Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, accusing them of "a deal" with William G. Ward, G. O. P. leader of Westchester County, to vote for the confirmation of Eugene Meyer, of Westchester, as governor of the Federal Reserve Board in exchange for Republican support at Albany to block the resolution authorizing a legislative investigation of New York City.

McFadden, whose opposition to Meyer's confirmation resulted in a reconsideration of his name by the Senate banking committee, made his statement as an extension of remarks in the Congressional Record, permission for which was accorded by the House. His charge linked John F. Curry, Tammany leader, with the alleged arrangement.

HOPE FOR EMBARGO ON WHEAT VANISHING

Longworth, After Burtness Bill Hearing, Doubts Vote This Session.

U. S. TO GET SURPLUS

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, said yesterday the wheat carryover of next July 1 might be almost entirely in the hands of the Government-sponsored Grain Stabilization Corporation.

A little later Speaker Longworth announced there was little chance for wheat embargo legislation at this session.

Mr. Legge estimated the corporation's holdings at the beginning of next summer's harvest at "possibly 200,000,000 bushels," with half that amount in cash wheat.

Mr. Longworth dashed the hopes of the sponsors of the Burtness bill to put a twelve-month embargo on wheat and a selected list of agricultural commodities. The bill has Mr. Legge's approval.

Hearings Are Completed.

Hearings on the measure were completed yesterday by the House ways and means committee, but final action was deferred until later in the week.

Mr. Legge said the board would accept delivery on March futures contracts and predicted this would not disturb the market "a particle." Ten million bushels are involved.

The chairman noted several bullish factors in recent market news, notably dwindling stocks of wheat abroad, but reiterated his warning against excessive domestic planting.

Wydney Anderson, vice president of General Mills, of Minneapolis, appeared before the committee today in behalf of grain interests engaged in milling in bond operations. He said he did not oppose the bill, but proposed an amendment to permit continued importation upon payment of the 1930 tariff rate on products milled in bond.

Mill Feed Duty Low.

Mr. Anderson devoted his testimony to mill feed, said by Chairman Legge to be "one of the tariff rates I can't understand." The duty on mill feed, or cracked wheat, Mr. Legge said, amounts to about 6 cents a bushel, while the tariff on wheat is 42 cents a bushel.

"The exclusion of mill feeds would have very little if any effect on the price of other feed grains, but would mean an increased cost to dairy farmers," Mr. Anderson said, after denying that imports of this product have increased appreciably.

CONGRESS PREPARES TO HASTEN PROGRAM

Bill to Punish Persons Who Start Bank Runs Will Be Brought Up.

FUNDS MEASURES HANG

Faced with ten and one-half working days before its mandatory adjournment for the session, Congress yesterday moved rapidly to speed legislation on issues both old and new.

The House rules committee agreed to bring eight proposals up on the floor, including the Brand bill to provide punishment for circulators of malicious rumors starting runs on Federal Reserve member banks, the bill for restricted immigration, and the administration's $30,000,000 battleship modernization program.

Representative Charles H. Brand, of Georgia, author of the malicious rumors bill, yesterday expressed his deep appreciation to The Washington Post for its exclusive story Sunday championing the measure and termed it "by far the strongest presentation yet made relative to the necessity for such legislation." The previous day he introduced the article in its entirety into the Congressional Record.

Other bills to be pushed by the House include the Senate maternity and infancy bill, the Senate bill to extend vocational education and civilian rehabilitation to Porto Rico, a bill to place a tax of 10 cents a pound on colored oleomargerine, the Britten bill to permit retirement of certain naval officers and abolishment of the lame duck session.

The House in the remaining time must approve seven conference reports, while the Senate must act favorably on only one bill, that for the Navy Department and four conference reports. Action on the conference reports will be virtually automatic under House procedure, while in the Senate they have a preferred status.

The Senate has before it the administration's $74,000,000 naval construction program, and also the Capper-Garber bill to limit oil imports to 16,000,000 barrels a year. Speaker Longworth said yesterday the latter bill had "a chance" for action in the House.

The Senate yesterday adopted the conference report on the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments appropriation bill, while the House approved the conference report on the legislative appropriation bill, completing congresisonal action on that bill.

Dead Legislators Honored by House

Tribute Is Paid to Nine Representatives and Two Senators.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday paid tribute to two senators and nine representatives who have died since last May. In the simple tribute, relatives of the dead joined their former colleagues in mourning their passing.

Heads of the State delegations then escorted relatives of the honored legislators to the first three rows of chairs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, simply dressed, as when she daily does her representative's work, accompanied Representative Effiegene Wingo, widow of Representative Otis Wingo, of Arkansas. Representatives Duce, of Massachusetts, and Mead, of New York, called upon their fellows to emulate the service of those to whom they paid honor.

Besides Representatives Wingo and Curry, the honored dead included Senators Overman, of North Carolina, and Green, of Vermont, and Representatives Porter and Kless, of Pennsylvania; Lampert, of Wisconsin; Stedman and Hammer, of North Carolina, and Quayle and O'Connell, of New York.

CABINET TO HASTEN ELECTIONS IN SPAIN

Constitutional Convention and New Catalonian Regime Planned.

FINANCIAL STEPS NEXT

Madrid (By Telephone to London), Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Spain's new cabinet, headed by Premier Juan Bautista Aznar, in its first official meeting tonight decided on the calling of elections and the establishment of a constitutional convention as soon as possible.

Other important policies are a plan to give administrative independence to the Catalonian district and another to better the status of the peseta, Spanish monetary unit.

As the first important matter the cabinet will fix dates for municipal, provincial and parliamentary elections in their respective order, the government promising complete sincerity in all.

Then the ministry will turn its attention to improving the value of the peseta, will revise some of the repressive acts decreed under the seven-year dictatorship of Primo de Rivera, and will present a bill in the new parliament for administrative independence of Catalonia.

This is intended to aid in solving the Catalonian problem which has always been a real problem for Spanish officialdom. There long has been a movement for separation in this area, of which the great City of Barcelona is the capital.

An official statement said the government wishes to give the people utmost liberty, but would not permit any attempts to disturb public peace.

(Associated Press.)

An expression of friendship of the new Spanish government toward the United States was conveyed yesterday to Secretary Stimson by Spanish Ambassador Padilla. The recent changes in his government were explained by the ambassador to the Secretary of State during a formal conference. Mr. Padilla called on Mr. Stimson on instructions of the new administration.

Earlier the ambassador expressed to the State Department "the sincere intention of working for the maintenance and strengthening the closest bonds of friendship already existing between the governments and the people of the United States and Spain."

Banks in Drought Area Ask Fund

$9,000,000 Is Sought for Extension of Agriculture Credit Corporations.

(Associated Press.)

Officials of intermediate credit banks in drought areas yesterday placed before Secretary Hyde an estimate of $9,000,000 as the amount necessary for extension of agriculture credit corporations in their sections.

The Secretary of Agriculture, who will administer the $20,000,0000 relief fund, said he might accept the figure on a temporary basis. He added, however, he was of the opinion that the figure was high.

In the event he accepts it as a working basis, the Secretary said he would do so only with the reservation that more or less could be applied for that purpose if needed. He said he also would specify that if developments showed the $11,000,000 balance was insufficient to meet the demands for direct loans that some of the $9,000,000 could be used.

The loans could be used for food, clothing and other needs for agriculture rehabilitation.

Supreme Court Gets Wanamaker Tax Suit

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday brought to the Supreme Court its attempt to collect $10,000,000 in taxes from the estate of the late John Wanamaker, Philadelphia merchant. David Burnet, collector of internal revenue, argued that Wanamaker transferred property worth more than $36,000,000 to his son and two daughters two years before he died in "anticipation of death."

Wanamaker was 84 when he died in Philadelphia in 1922. Ninety-five per cent of his property had been put into possession of his children in 1920. The Board of Tax Appeals, with six members dissenting, decided the transfers were not made in contemplation of death and the third Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the action.

SHOALS BILL VETO FEAR OF CONGRESS

Compromise Measure Nears Final Action as Report Is Approved.

HOOVER DENIES RUMORS

(Associated Press.)

With final House action on the Muscle Shoals controversy set for today, sponsors of Government operation last night were apprehensive of a Presidential veto of the new compromise bill.

Representative Quin (Democrat), Mississippi, a signer of the conference report, said off the floor efforts of the majority leadership to delay the vote another day indicates a move to set the stage for a pocket veto.

Though declining to predict what course President Hoover might follow, Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, said he thought the measure would be vetoed.

Veto Reports Denied.

White House officials made it known, however, that reports the President would veto the bill, if it reached him, were misleading since the President did not know what was in the compromise agreement.

Bearing the signatures of four of its five conferees, the report was presented to the House yesterday by Representative Wurzbach (Republican), Texas, with notice he would ask for its consideration today. Republican Leader Tilson and Mr. Snell suggested a longer delay to permit members to study the agreement.

Mr. Wurzbach replied that he would not ask consideration of the report before 3 o'clock. This brought charges off the floor by Democrats that an effort was being made to prevent the report from reaching the Senate before adjournment today.

Pocket Veto Feared.

If the bill does not reach President Hoover Friday he will be able to block it by a pocket veto. The last Muscle Shoals bill sent to the White House was given a pocket veto by President Coolidge. Several administration Republicans in the Senate have predicted the President will not sign a Government operation bill.

If the President receives the bill Friday he either must sign it or return it to Congress with a veto message before the end of the session, making possible a vote to override the veto.

Shortly before the report was filed Representative Reece (Republican), Tennessee, who had charge of the bill in the House for the administration, signed it.

Best Possible Choice.

"While this is not what I preferred, it is the best that could be obtained in view of the situation which developed in conference," Mr. Reece said.

"With successful operation of nitrate plants under lease contract for large scale fertilizer production, no need will arise for the Government to build transmission lines, as most, if not all, the power will be used in nitrate plant operations, as originally intended in the national defense act, under which the whole project was constructed."

The question of Government construction of power transmission lines to the plant was one of the hardest fought points in the report. It provides for such construction.

Parcel Post Rate Changes Defended

U. S. Officials Seek Means of Reducing Deficit in Department.

(Associated Press.)

Postoffice officials defended yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission proposals recently made by Postmaster General Brown to increase parcel post rates as a means of reducing the standing annual postal deficit.

F. A. Tilon, Third Assistant Postmaster General, estimated losses on parcel post during 1929 contributed $19,778,000 of the department's total $85,451,000 deficit that year, and $15,570,000 of the $98,215,000 deficit in 1930. He added that "the parcel post can not operate on a paying basis under present conditions."

W. C. Woods, superintendent of classification, estimated the department's proposals to increase average parcel post rates by about 1 cent per pound on shorter distance shipments and at the same time allow a similar decrease on long distance shipments would result in increasing revenues by about $7,500,000 a year.

The schedules also would allow 70-pound parcels for transmission through all zones instead of the present limit of 50 pounds.

2,995,622 Cars Sold In 1930 on Credit Plan

(Associated Press.)

Automobiles sold on installment last year were estimated yesterday by the Commerce Department to have numbered 2,995,622, and to have entailed a credit extension during the year of $1,229,965,000.

Installment sales in 1929 reported to the department involved 3,559,829 cars and $1,622,766,000. The 1930 installment sales, however, exceed materially the like business volume of 1928, when 2,469,658 cars were sold on time with credit advanced of $1,198,544,000.

BANKS OF COUNTRY INCREASE LIQUIDITY

Opening of 1931 Finds Less Credit Outstanding in Ratio to Assets.

TRADE REVIEW RELEASED

(Associated Press.)

Banks of the country at the opening of 1931 were in a position of greatly increased liquidity because of decreases in the total volume of their outstanding credit and in the proportion of their assets that depend on local situations under the influence of customer relationships.

The Federal Reserve Board in its monthly review of business and finance said this readjustment was the result of the conditions during the fifteen months prior to the opening of the present year when there were an unusually large number of bank suspensions. In January there were 197 suspensions as compared with 34 in December and 99 in January, 1930.

"The period of fifteen months between October, 1929, and the end of 1930 was one of readjustment and liquidation for the banks of the country as well as of an unusually large number of bank suspensions," the board said. "At the end of the period the active banks taken as a whole were in a position of greatly increased liquidity resulting both from a decrease in the total volume of their outstanding credit and a decrease in the proportion of their assets that depend upon local situations and are under influence of the customer relationship.

Open Market Holdings.

"The banks' open-market holdings, which are in part in the nature of secondary reserves, on the other hand, increased during the period, in relation to their total resources. Furthermore, the liquidation of $5,500,000,000 of loans to the security market made by non-banking lenders also strengthened the banking situation."

The board said the demand for currency, which had decreased during the first ten months of 1930, increased in November and December at more than the seasonal rate. Unsettled conditions, it said, resulted in bank failures and withdrawal of currency from the reserve banks to increase the cash in local banks to meet the increased public demand.

The greater demand than the usual seasonal increase, it said, was felt in the New York, Richmond, San Francisco and Chicago districts.

"In the latter part of January, when the post-holiday seasonal decrease in currency usually comes to an end, the volume of money in circulation was still somewhat larger than a year ago, and also $100,000,000 larger than in October, although in an ordinary year currency in circulation at the end of January is about $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 smaller than in October," the board said.

Two Months of 1930.

"It may be estimated, therefore, that an additional amount of cash aggregating between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 is held outside of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Banks as the result of developments in the banking situation in the last two months of 1930.

"Of this amount, probably less than one-third is still held in vaults by commercial banks, particularly in country districts for the purpose of maintaining an unusually liquid condition with a view of being prepared to meet any possible further withdrawals of deposits.

"The increase of cash held in the vaults of banks for that purpose was considerable in November and December, but with the return of confidence most of this cash, especially in the financial centers, has been returned to the Federal Reserve Banks. Cash withdrawn by the public, however, still remains outstanding in large volume."

Nicaraguan Guardsmen Wound 25 Insurgents

(Associated Press.)

Twenty-five Nicaraguan insurgents were wounded on February 16 in a brush with Nicaraguan National Guardsmen under the command of United States Marines. The skirmish, reported yesterday to the Navy Department, occurred near El Tule, in the northern section of the Central American Republic.

The insurgents, numbering 35, were routed after a fight lasting half an hour. Their camp was destroyed. The guardsmen were under the command of Capt. Gregon A. Williams, of San Diego, and Lieut. Floyd M. McCorkle, of Wilmar, Calif.

CITY CHILD LEADS IN PRESCHOOL AIDS

Survey of 177,000 Under 6 Years Old Shows Rural Handicaps.

HEALTH SESSION OPENS

Preschool city children have a marked advantage over rural children in disease prevention service, although the difference between the two is not "near as great as was anticipated," the Medical Section of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection was told last night at its opening of its gathering here.

The speaker was Dr. George Truman Palmer, director of research, American Child Health Association, who tendered an exhaustive report dealing with a survey among 177,000 children, all under 6 years old. The number included 140,000 children in 146 scattered cities, and 37,000 children in rural sections of 42 States.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur opened the session with a message to physicians present, that their work would supply the basic information upon which other fields of child health depended, and that this increasing activity would open a new era for the American child. A report will be submitted tomorrow to President Hoover.

"Fifty-one per cent of preschool children have at some time prior to their sixth year had a health examination," Dr. Palmer said. "Twenty-two per cent have been vaccinated, 22 per cent immunized against diphtheria and 13 per cent have had a dental health examination."

"In the matter of health examinations, the rural child is at some disadvantage. Whereas half of the city children have had health examinations only a little more than a third of the rural children have had this service. The country child is very definitely behind in vaccinations. Only 7 per cent have been vaccinated.

"In immunization, the rural child is astonishingly close to the city child. Most surprising of all, perhaps, is the fact that the rural child stands shoulder to shoulder with the city child in health visits to the dentist."

Stella Goostray, secretary of the National League of Nursing Education, submitted a report of a subcommitee on nursing, declaring that there was a "prevalent oversupply of poorly-trained nurses," but "an undersupply of well-prepared nurses." It said also that "the exploitation of student nurses for cheap labor in hospitals which are in no position to offer adequate theoretical or practical instruction" was the underlying cause of poor nursing service.

Fire Kills Hotel Guest, But 100 Others Escape

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—One man was burned to death and 100 guests were routed from their rooms when fire destroyed a wing of the historic New Madison Hotel, across the street from the governor's mansion here today.

The cause of the fire was undetermined but hotel attendants expressed the belief the fire originated from a lighted cigarette stub in the room of J. M. Schlitz, of Wichita, Kans., who was burned to death. Firemen saw Schlitz in his room but were unable to reach him because of flames.

Butler Is Silent on Duce In New Philadelphia Talks

Marine Officer Refers to "Jams" and "Messes," Leaving Hearers to Guess Meaning; Recaptures Spirit of Old Days in Speeches.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who recently got himself into a "jam," as he calls it, came back to Philadelphia today and made two speeches.

The peppery Marine commander did not mention the Mussolini incident, which resulted in his being ordered up for court-martial and his subsequent apology, but in his talks he referred to "jams" and "messes" and let his hearers make their own guesses.

When he arrived early in the day he repeated what he had said at Buffalo last night, that he intended to retire from the Marine Corps to go on the lecture platform. As to his speech at the Contemporary Club here, which resulted in the United States making an apology to Italy, not a word.

At the Northeast Public High School the general was greeted by the students like a hero just back from the war. The stage setting was just to the liking of the general, and entering into the spirit of his welcome he gave the boys one of his characteristic talks that have become familiar to Philadelphians since the time he ran the police and fire departments of the city.

"Boys," he said, "don't let anybody throw mud at this town. I've had occasion to find out. When you're in the kind of a jam I've been in, you find it out. The people here stand by you."

After his talk Gen. Butler was presented with a loving cup as the most popular speaker at the school in the last year. Later Gen. Butler made another speech at the Penn Athletic Club, where he was a guest of honor.

"The Marines are always prepared for war or peace," said the fiery general. "But in time of peace their greatest difficulty is in quieting the tempest within and remaining diplomatic. And sometimes the marine has diplomacy forced upon him.

"I've announced that I'm retiring from the corps," he said, "but I'm not getting out. Once a marine, always a marine."

This was taken to mean that while he will retire, he will remain a "Devil Dog" in spirit after his 32 years' service in the corps.

Gen. Butler is spending the night in the suburbs, leaving tomorrow for Pittsburgh, where he speaks Saturday night. He will return to Quantico Sunday.

RHEEM, SWARTZELL REMOVAL IS ASKED

Court Asked to Force Naming of New Trustees Under Shoreham Trust.

RECEIVERS ARE NAMED

The District Supreme Court yesterday was asked to remove Luther A. Swartzell and Edmund D. Rheem as trustees under the $1,650,000 trust on the Shoreham Hotel Building at 2500 Calvert street northwest.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins permitted the plaintiffs, John C. and Mary Spencer, of 1715 Seventh street northwest, to file the suit against the receivers, who recently were appointed by the court to take over the affairs of the hotel corporation. Receivers for the hotel were appointed a few days after the firm of Swartzell, Rheem, Hensey & Co., run by Rheem and Swartzell, filed a petition in bankruptcy.

In addition to asking the removal of Rheem and Swartzell, the petitioners ask the court to designate some other place at which interest and payment on notes secured by the trust involved can be made.

The petitioners tell the court details of the company's bankruptcy and declare that the two men are not proper persons to continue as trustees. Attorney Charles S. Shreve appears as counsel for the petitioners.

COUPLE MUST DIE MONDAY

Counsel for Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, condemned to die in the electric chair Monday for the slaying of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul, made pleas for clemency before the Pennsylvania pardon board at Harrisburg. The board refused to recommend commutation of death sentence. Mrs. Schroeder is shown in the center of the group being escorted by an official. Inset shows Dague.

Joseph Crawford, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Muldoon, the latter a sister of the convicted woman. They were accompanied to the governor's chamber by 5-year-old Donnie Schroeder, son of the condemned 22-year-old mother.

The pardon board on Wednesday declined to interfere with the sentences imposed on the couple last March. After the little group had been received by the executive, and had departed, it was explained unofficially on his behalf that all he could do would be to issue a respite, being powerless to take other action without a recommendation of the pardon board.

A stay, in which direction attorneys were bending their efforts, is all that will prevent the scheduled execution of the former Wheeling waitress and Dague, Wheeling salesman, who deserted his wife and two children to accompany Mrs. Schroeder in a life of banditry.

Crowds in London Acclaim Chaplin

Comedian, Hoping to Spend Quiet Days, Fearful After Arrival.

London, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Charlie Chaplin hopes for quiet days during his visit to England, he told reporters today, but if his first day was a sample he will play the lead in a long mob scene.

The little comedian landed at Plymouth this morning on the second visit he has made to his homeland in twenty years, and from the moment the Mauretania cast anchor until he reached his London hotel, and even then, he was besieged by crowds.

They waited on the quayside, they cheered from platforms as his train sped toward London, and they were solidly packed at Paddington Station when he arrived. As he leaped to the roof of his car and drove for his hotel they cheered him again and again.

ping wires in States which have laws prohibiting the practice.

"Insofar as I have been able to ascertain," Mr. Mitchell asserted, "No State statute ever has been held to apply to a federal agent. I believe wire-tapping is quite generally used by police agencies throughout the country. If you are going to go into the ethics of wire-tapping, you will have to study other things such as eavesdropping."

Mr. Woodcock declined to call any agents in his bureau "wire-tappers." He said there were a number of men in the bureau who "supervise wires for the obtaining of evidence." He added that of the thousands of cases prosecuted by the bureau in the last year evidence in only "40 or 50 was obtained by supervising wires." He concluded with the assertion that "we are trying to enforce this law lawfully."

"'Her parents,' he explained,' have let me take her for 25 years for the sum of $25. 'There is nothing to be surprised about, for there are persons who make worse bargains and buy girls outright forever.'

"Another passenger said: 'It is true. I have bought a little girl for myself and another for a cousin of mine. Many of my friends have bought girls. Prices six months ago were much higher. I had to pay $149 for my child, to say nothing of $10 for the agent who managed the business for me. Now prices have fallen. We train these children and so do not have to hire servants.'

"I asked the man what the government had to say about such a practice and the reply was: 'Many of the government officials buy such girls themselves.'" events preceding the tragedy. After the decision, Moresby White, attorney for the Ritchie estate, announced he would file an appeal.

Calling the tragedy a "love slaying" he said he had intended to introduce evidence which would show a "peculiar condition" existed between the two women. Witnesses he had asked to testify refused to appear, he said, declaring they were afraid of publicity.

In closing his argument, White pleaded with the court not to place Miss Ritchie "under the stigma of murder." At most, he contended, the crime was manslaughter.

CHICAGO CANDIDATES USE CIRCUS TACTICS

Loop Meetings Feature by Loud Speakers, Parades and Accusations.

CROWDS BLOCK STREETS

Chicago, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Politics held raucous carnival in the Chicago loop today.

Only four days until the party primary for mayor, and every major candidate in the rough-and-tumble Republican race converged on downtown.

It was bedlam all day long as "Big Bill" Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle and Alderman Arthur F Albert shouted of plots of gangsters and skulduggery.

Crowds blocked some streets, defying police in order to listen to the blaring of loud-speakers carrying the voices of their candidates. Sound trucks shrilled propaganda. Mayor Thompson's animal show grotesquely plodded rialto streets; and as a counter-attraction, Mrs. Albert appeared atop a tallyho with a group of pretty girls.

The old and sinister motif of violence, always present in earlier campaigns, was sounded again.

Mayor Thompson told his audiences he had learned that "200 St. Louis gangsters are being imported for the election."

They are to be used, he said, to "strong-arm" voters into casting their ballots for one of his opponents.

Around the corner, in another loop theater, Judge Lyle repeated his plaint that city hall police are "diverting" many people who want to hear him into the Thompson meetings.

"They are shoving them into the mayor's meeting whether they want to go or not," he said. In the lobby, men stood guard to see that no one cut the wires leading to the Lyle loud-speakers.

Alderman Albert, escorting his wife from the Tallyho, called out to the crowds:

"Just look at these other candidates! Do you want a buffoon for Mayor of Chicago?"

girl; but it's a surprise to me," said the mother of the bridegroom. "It must be a mistake."

"I've known that they have been engaged on the quiet for some time; but I hardly expected the marriage so soon," said the father of the bride.

As elopements go, this one was anything but secretive, that is, among their circle of acquaintances.

The couple planned the elopement yesterday afternoon, and toward midnight they aroused G. William Parker, clerk of the Baltimore County Court at Towson, from his slumber to get the wedding license. In addition to the bride and bridegroom, there were five others in the elopement party.

They were Charles R. Weaver, a student at George Washington University; John W. Dooley, a broker; Caroline F. Jackson, Marjorie Moorman, all of this city, and Thomas L. Arbogast, of Chicago, who is visiting here.

After the ceremony, the couple announced that their plans for a honeymoon were indefinite. They would not say where they were going after the nuptials.

Mrs. Littlepage attended the fashionable Gunston Hall School here and later went to Southern Seminary, from which she was graduated three years ago. She is a junior in the law school. Her husband is a senior in the arts and sciences department at the university and will get his degree in June. He will enter the law school next September.

Just before the ceremony, the bridegroom told a reporter, that he had met his bride at the university about three years ago. The bridegroom gave his age as 23 and the bride said she was 20. At the university, Mrs. Littlepage was a member of the Phi Beta Phi Sorority and of the University Glider Club.

The bridegroom's parents live at 1829 Wyoming avenue. The bride's parents live at 3024 Tilden street. She has a twin brother, Gerald, and three other brothers, Lloyd, George and Herbert, the latter also being twins.

Daugherty Opens His Defense Today

State Rests Case Against Ohio Banker After Ten Days.

Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Mal S. Daugherty, brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, will open his defense tomorrow in his trial for alleged misuse of funds while president of the defunct Ohio State Bank. The State rested today after devoting ten days to presentation of evidence by which it hopes to convict the 68-year-old banker of abstracting more than $30,000 in bank funds.

The last witnesses included Cecil Hall, State investigator who helped uncover the evidence that led to Daugherty's indictment after he had been declared a bankrupt. Hall identified numerous documents which the State said showed that the defendant deposited to his own account the proceeds of notes indorsed in blank by other persons, including his wife, his son and several friends.

Hall testified that Daugherty owed the bank personally and through notes $49,600 when the institution closed on May 12, 1929.

NEW BORLAND LAW CUTS TAX FIGURES

25 Per Cent to Be Saved in 3-Year Back Period on Assessments.

BILL IS BEFORE HOOVER

Property holders will save 25 per cent in taxes under the new Borland law as compared to the old act, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride said yesterday. As the law is retroactive for three years, claimants during this period will be entitled to approximately the same percentage of return on assessments paid under the former legislation.

Tax Assessor William P. Richards estimated that it will take at least a year, with an enlarged staff, to make the reassessments required under the new law, which is awaiting the President's signature.

Under section 11 the District Commissioners are directed to cancel all assessments for improvements completed within three years prior to the date of enactment of the revised act. They are likewise directed to have the property reassessed under the terms of the new legislation.

All this will require a tremendous amount of work, Mr. Richards said, and can hardly be accomplished without additional clerks.

Vernon L. West, first assistant corporation counsel, who handles the District's Borland law cases in court, expressed the view that the new act would stand a court test. While in private practice Mr. West was the first lawyer to attack the Borland law successfully in court.

Charges Against Klan Chief Nolled

Court Drops Indictments Naming Stephenson, in Cell for Life.

Indianapolis, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Five indictments against D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, who is serving a life sentence at Michigan City prison, were nolled in criminal court here today on motion of Prosecutor Herbert E. Wilson.

The indictments were returned April 3, 1925, a few weeks after Stephenson is alleged to have abducted Miss Madge Oberholtzer from her home here. She took poison and died.

The indictments charged kidnaping, assault and battery with intent to kill, criminal assault, malicious mayhem and conspiracy to commit a felony. As a result of today's action, if the Indiana Supreme Court should reverse the conviction of the former Klan leader he could not be prosecuted on any of the charges in the five indictments.

PRODUCERS' LOW PRICES KEPT FROM CONSUMERS, IS CLAIM

getting former paices and the consumer is getting good quality milk.

"Testimony of Mr. Ethelbert Stewart, of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows that the retail prices of meats in Washington and other cities do not reflect the reduction in prices paid the producer.

"Undoubtedly the investigation has been worth while and has done considerable good for the consumers, not only in Washington but elsewhere in the country."

Formal report of the investigating committee, Senator Capper said, will be submitted to the Senate within the next ten days. C. V. Maudlin, head of an economic investigating service, professed himself as quite pleased with the facts developed in the course of the investigation. Many of these were so presented or developed as to miss large newspaper headlines, but show clearly the existing conditions.

Testimony before the committee yesterday concluded with presentation of a mass of statistics. Prices of meat, witnesses said, have declined sharply to producers, but there is today a greater disparity than ever before between producer and consumer prices. Consumers have not received the benefit of reduced prices to producers, they showed.

Increased Overhead Costs.

David Van Gelder, of the National Retail Meat Dealers Association, said that the increasing disparity was due to increased overhead costs and to the demand of consumers for better qualities of meat.

Senator Capper took official notice of recent bread-price reductions in Washington as the hearings closed, calling attention to reductions announced by the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and by Holmes & Co. which meant savings of thousands of dollars to Washington households, the senator said.

There has been a reduction in meat prices in the last year in Washington, Mr. Stewart told the committee, but even with the reductions there was still a disproportionate spread between producer and consumer prices, it was said.

BLAINE CRIES FRAUD AT LEASING INQUIRY

Collusion to Prevent Jury Probe in St. Paul Is Charged.

HEATED WORD BATTLE

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Blaine, of the Senate committee investigating the St. Paul commercial station postoffice lease, charged yesterday a "strong chain of circumstances" pointed to collusion to prevent a second grand jury investigation of the lease.

The charge was made during cross-examination of Harry S. New, former Postmaster General who denied any connection with the investigation. It precipitated sharp exchange between Mr. Blaine, the witness and Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, another committee member.

Questioned by Mr. Hastings, Mr. Blaine denied he was charging collusion of Mr. New's part, but both Mr. Hastings and Mr. New characterized one of the questions asked by the committee chairman as "insulting."

After Mr. New insisted he had sent postal inspectors to St. Paul to learn the truth about charges of "fraud" in the lease, contained in a grand jury report, Mr. Blaine asked:

Insult Is Claimed.

"Do you still contend the inspectors were not sent to place a construction on the evidence that would discredit future investigations?"

"That question," the former Postmaster General replied, "is almost insulting and not worthy of answer."

"It is quite insulting," Mr. Hastings asserted.

"Nobody ever acted in better faith in any honest attempt to find if there was fraud than I did," Mr. New added.

"I am convinced," Mr. Blaine said, "that the chain of circumstances, and every link in that chain is becoming stronger, shows there was collusion to prevent the second grand jury investigation.

"Whether it is insulting or not," he added, "I can't help it. I intend to pursue this case."

"I am sorry you are unable to control the workings of your mind," Mr. New retorted.

Evidence From Department.

The committee chairman replied it was not the "workings of his mind" on which he made his statement, but evidence from the Justice Department.

"Have you anything there that reflects on Mr. New?" Mr. Hastings asked.

"I am not discussing Mr. New," the chairman replied.

Blaine said the postal inspectors, in their reports, did not confine their statements to the evidence, but criticized the grand jury, the witnesses before it and the judge.

"Was it the duty of the inspectors to investigate the grand jury?" he asked.

"It was their duty to run down all the stories which were going to the grand jury," Mr. New replied. "The inspectors were sent to get the truth and I accepted their reports as the truth."

Mr. Blaine said the inspectors' reports showed they "made a constant effort to defend the department against any charges and not to ascertain the facts."

Good's Name Mentioned.

At one point in the cross-examination the name of James W. Good, late Secretary of War, who served as attorney for lessors of the St. Paul station, was mentioned. Previous testimony said he negotiated the contract with New.

"It is altogether regrettable," Mr. New said, "that Mr. Good is not here to testify in his own behalf and in his own defense."

"I am not charging Good with anything," Mr. Blaine said.

"But you are * * *" Mr. New insisted.

He was questioned by Mr. Blaine about a letter John H. Bartlett, his Assistant Postmaster General, had testified was sent to Mr. Good in Chicago during 1928. Mr. Bartlett said he had carried the letter, but did not know its contents.

Mr. New said he did not remember the letter, but would not deny having sent it. He denied, however, it was in relation to the dismissal of Assistant District Attorney Fesler, at St. Paul.

"That isn't my inference," Mr. Blaine said.

"I'm glad it isn't," Mr. New replied. Later, however, he reiterated that was the inference in former testimony. He added he had not known Mr. Fesler was planning to submit the lease case to a second grand jury.

Court Enjoins McLean Action

Order Temporarily Halts Divorce Prosecution in Mexican Court.

(Associated Press.)

A restraining order temporarily enjoining Edward B. McLean, publisher and sportsman, from prosecuting a divorce action in a Mexican court was issued yesterday in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. Only a month ago the court ordered McLean to pay his wife, Evelyn Walsh McLean, $7,500 a month for the separate maintenance of herself and their three children. Mrs. McLean had asked $10,000 a month.

Word that Mr. McLean, who publishes The Washington Post, had filed divorce proceedings at Cuernavaca, Mexico, came somewhat as a surprise in the Capital.

The Mexican suit was filed February 4, and was based principally upon "incompatibility of character." Mrs. McLean was served with the Mexican complaint on February 11 at Palm Beach. The District Supreme Court had closed for the day when Justice Jesse C. Adkins handed down the temporary restraining order against the publisher. The business was transacted in the court chambers.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson refused to quash the information on the charge, which has been pending nearly two years. The contempt action was based on Capone's plea that he was too ill to answer a grand jury subpena.

The government charged that Capone was not too ill at the time to attend races in Florida.

In 1911 he came to Washington as secretary to Senator John Williams, of Mississippi. He served in that position until 1916, when he was appointed a clerk in the American Embassy at Petrograd, Russia. He enlisted in the United States Army, and later became assistant military attache at Petrograd. He returned to Washington in 1920, and for more than a year wrote articles on Russian affairs for several leading magazines.

Capt. Martin was appointed as special assistant to the American Minister at Riga, Latvia in 1922. He remained in that position until 1929, when he was ordered to duty in the Department of State. Confirmation of the nominations of Judges John P. McMahon and Isaac Hitt, of the District Police Court, was forecast yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, of the Senate judiciary committee subcommittee considering the nominations.

Some protest has been made against the reappointment of Judge McMahon but this is not thought to have been of a character to impress committee members and a favorable report is expected from the committee, with formal confirmation by the Senate following promptly.

$30,000,000 Plot Laid to Directors

American Tobacco Men, So Says Lawyer, Plan to Appropriate Sum.

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Richard Reid Rogers, lawyer and stockholder in the American Tobacco Co., today charged officers and directors of the company with perpetrating a plan to pay themselves a $30,000,000 bonus through purchase of stock at $25 a share. He said the shares were worth $100.

Rogers filed a motion in State supreme court asking a mandamus to force the company to permit him to inspect its books. He charged that in June the officers through a "bribe" of $4 extra dividend on old shares, obtained approval of issuance of 5,000,000 shares of new stock, 312,000 of which were to be sold at a nominal price "wholly disproportionate with its market value."

He added that officers purchased the majority of the 312,000 shares and later refused to allow him to examine the books.

The steamer, which brought Capt. Malcolm Campbell back to England to be knighted after setting an automobile speed record in Florida, was able to be berthed after her release from her trap.

Previous efforts of tugs had failed to shift her. While the ship was stuck Capt. Campbell was taken ashore on a tender. A large crowd had assembled to cheer him for his feat of establishing an automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, February 5.

Shaw Sees Wilson Great as Lincoln

If He Had Been Assassinated He Would Be as Famous, Novelist Declares.

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—George Bernard Shaw, in his new book, "What I Really Wrote About the War," says that if Woodrow Wilson had been assassinated at the climax of his popularity his fame today would equal Lincoln's.

Instead, he writes, the "strain of the peace broke him," and Clemenceau "soon had the fourteen points in the waste basket."

Shaw quotes his own writings to show that he forecast accurately the peace conference developments and the Locarno agreement.

MILLIONAIRE KILLED IN PLUNGE OF GLIDER

Retired Inkstand Maker Dies as Craft of Own Design Fails to Function.

PILOT SLIGHTLY INJURED

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—From inkstands to Icarus proved a path of death today for Emry Davis, 78-year-old millionaire.

Mr. Davis, a retired inkstand manufacturer, was killed when a glider with wings like a bird's, which he had spent two years designing and building in secret, crashed 50 feet at Roosevelt Field on its maiden flight.

Two years ago the aged millionaire appeared at the field and began building in a little shop. Later he moved to a new hangar, but he kept his plans secret from everybody. Visitors were unwelcome and he kept his shop locked, with curtains drawn over the windows. His employes were sworn to secrecy.

Today, with his pilot, Carl Nelson, he pushed the glider out. It had a pair of wings on either side but set in tandem, one behind another, the edges scalloped like feather tips. The glider was a model for a large airplane of the same design he intended to build, acquaintances said.

Friends urged him not to try the flight himself, but to leave it to more experienced hands. He refused. In tow of an automobile, the glider mounted 50 feet. Watchers said the towing cable seemed not to have released properly. The ship did a half loop, throwing Mr. Davis out, and landed upside down.

Mr. Davis was dead when he was taken to a hospital. The pilot was not seriously injured.

because their savings will have been depleted this winter and their vitality will have been drained. He warned the District committee not to let a mild spring improvement make them lose sight of the approaching fall and winter.

Mr. Delano in his report stated that jobs had been given to 7,222 through the committee's efforts and that $17,144 had been raised and most of it spent in behalf of the unemployed. He cited the work of his group in having fuel brought to Washington from Quantico and of providing jobs in the chopping up of trees cut down in Arlington Cemetery to make way for a road.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Commissioners, thanked the committee for its accomplishments, while Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, outlined the work of his department in pushing ahead construction projects so as to aid in relieving unemployment.

Opposes Discontinuance.

Francis I. Jones, of the Department of Labor, also asked the committee not to discontinue its task at this time.

Optimistic notes were sounded by Mark Lansburgh, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association, and Lloyd Wilson, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

John B. Colpoys, editor of the Trade Unionist, criticized bankers for urging people to bank their money at this time, thus keeping it out of circulation, and also expressed the hope that Congress would soon remedy the policy which forced the District Commissioners to award contracts to the lowest bidders regardless of the wage standards of the contractors.

Sciences Academy Will Hear Dr. Tuve

Capital Savant Will Discuss Beta and Gamma Rays at Cosmos Club.

Artificial production of two of the three types of rays sent forth by radium, an activity in which he has been recognized nationally as an authority, will be discussed by Dr. M. A. Tuve, of this city, at 8:15 o'clock tonight at a meeting of the Washington Academy of Sciences in the Cosmos Club.

Dr. Tuve, L. R. Hafsted and O. Dahl, of the department of terrestial magnetism, Carnegie Institution of Washington, were awarded the annual $1,000 prize of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its meeting in Cleveland in January for their noteworthy efforts in this field. Their paper read before the gathering was entitled, "Experiments With High Voltage Tubes."

Dr. Tuve, with lantern slides and apparatus, will tell how he and his colleagues obtained beta and gamma rays, substantially the same as those given off by radium, by applying nearly 2,000,000 volts to vacuum tubes. The public has been invited.

12,500 VERDUN DEAD REPORTED UNBURIED

French Soldiers, Counted by Government Official, Await Interment.

BONES IN CRUDE BOXES

Paris, Feb. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Twelve thousand five hundred French soldiers killed at Verdun still await burial twelve years after the end of the war.

This startling information has just been investigated by Minister of Pensions Champetier de Ribes and has been found to be the truth. During a one-hour visit to the famous battlefield M. Ribes was able to count 2,400 uniformed skeletons in a temporary mortuary at Douaumont and 9,800 others in a tumbledown hangar.

According to the correspondent of Paris Soir, daily newspaper, published here, who accompanied the cabinet minister to Verdun, the remains are contained in "frightful scrap boxes, unplaned and unnailed." Ribes saw and identified the remains of twelve French soldiers enveloped in a sheet.

Scattered over the vast battlefield are other depositories holding equally gruesome revelations. At the entrance to one such the visitors read an inscription apparently addressed to all who might pass that way:

"For a sepulchre worthy of their sacred remains the glorious dead wait here."

The correspondent of Paris Soir says that 50,000 bodies still lie at Verdun only a few inches under the frozen surface of the ground which gives many of them up when a thaw comes.

"No one is to blame; it is war," M. Ribes mused aloud as he left the harrowing scene, adding, "we must find money to build more ossuaries—as many as are needed."

Astor Heirs Face Vast Claim Again

$100,000,000 in Property Sought Through U. S. Appellate Court.

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Litigation 6 years old by which heirs of John Nicholas Emerick seek to recover $100,000,000 worth of real estate and other property from heirs of John Jacob Astor, whom they contend was Emerick's one-time partner, came to life again today in the Federal court of appeals.

Calvin I. Hoy, St. Louis attorney, presented himself on behalf of the Emerick heirs to appeal from an order of Federal Judge Alfred Coxe, who dismissed last year a suit against Benjamin Koerber, German school teacher, representing German claimants to heirdom. The American heirs of Emerick had sued Mr. Koerber for possession of a surrogate court decree of 1848 recognizing the so-called Emerick-Astor trust.

Mr. Hoy's counsel told the court the action was to compel Koerber to conform to an agreement under which he should have cooperated with Mr. Hoy by turning over to him the decree which recognized the existence of the trust, made in 1815 for the benefit of Emerick heirs.

Sued for $30,000 damages, Dr. William I. Ogus, surgeon dentist, of the Farragut Apartments, won the case in District Supreme Court yesterday when a directed verdict in his favor was ordered by Justice Frederick L. Siddons.

Dr. Ogus was sued by Edward J. Hawes, a Pullman conductor, who lives in Bloomfield, N. J. Mr. Hawes, who formerly resided in this city, claimed that Dr. Ogus was guilty of negligence and malpractice when he allegedly left the roots of teeth in Mr. Hawes' jaws. The dentist's attorney, Charles W. Arth, pointed out at the trial that Mr. Hawes and his witnesses had failed to prove the charges.

That old comedy of errors, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," gets a new lease on life as released under the auspices of Miss Jane Cowl—in the Belasco Theater.

Andrew Leigh, well known around the Old Vic, in London, staged the comedy—and he brings a touch of novelty to it by pulling all of the scenes out of a book.

This really is an idea. When the curtains are drawn aside, a great tome is seen standing on the stage. A book, naturally, it contains a new edition of "Twelfth Night"—right out of the first folio.

After the title page is turned, the play begins. Feste, the clown, played by Lewis Martin, is here made a sort of scene-shifter—along with his duties to Olivia—so it keeps the boy stepping, turning pages, which, in turn, are scenes. Some are beautifully painted.

The pages opened, the scenery shown about in the same fashion that the Moscow Art Players utilized the art of theater; craftily, frugally, and, withal, effectively.

Aside from this feature, the "Twelfth Night" that the Jane Cowl Company produced is about on a par with most of the "Twelfth Nights" seen down here on the banks of the Potomac these past five seasons; save, of course, that Miss Cowl lends her beauty to the dual role of Viola and Cesario; making a comely little boy, go-between, love-messenger for Orsino, carrying the heart-throb to Olivia.

A goodly crowd turned out to see the comedy, though not in such numbers as the audiences who saw the modern play, "Art and Mrs. Bottle," earlier in the week.

The question is: Has Lent come upon the theater, or are theatergoers weary of the Bard of Avon and all who would revive his works?

Certainly no one can have any shafts to shoot at the thespians who here don buskin and hose. They do well. This man, Walter Kingsford, with his deep, rumbling voice, makes a likable Sir Toby, that old, drunken sot. Surely there is no finer player in all the theater than Jessie Ralph, here seen as the mischievous Maria. She it is who does so well the nurse in "Hamlet." Leon Quartermaine is Malvolio, a good conception of the role, too, and fairly tragic at the end. Miss Mareh Eversen is quite queenly as Olivia, and Jane Cowl has a double in Jerry Bowman, who looks enough like the star to be her brother; perhaps more so. Naturally, Mr. Bowman plays Sebastian.

Three more performances of "Twelth Night" and Mr. Stoddard Taylor will turn his house over to a new musical comedy or, rather, a revue, opening Sunday night.

Scientists to Again Measure Light Speed to Seek Error

Dr. Albert A. Michelson, in Failing Health, Plans to Establish Calculation for All Time as Final Experiment; Builds Vacuum Tube.

Santa Ana, Calif., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 78, first American physicist to be awarded the Noble Prize for scientific achievement, today began his final experiment.

More than two years ago he flashed light from mountain top to mountain top near here and measured its speed as 186,285 miles per second. He believes there was a slight error in his computations, probably not more than a mile per second, but he must eliminate this error, however small, so his measurement will stand for all time.

"When that is done," he said, "I'll rest on my oars."

The scientist's health has been failing of late.

Dr. Michelson has had a vacuum tube three feet in diameter and one mile long constructed on a ranch near here at a cost of $50,000. It is made of corrugated steel pipe.

The pipe is enlarged at each end to hold mirrors which reflect light from an arc lamp back and forth through the tube ten times. A small octagonal wheel, each of its eight faces a polished mirror, turns at a speed of 512 revolutions a second, flashing the light through the tube. The light completes its ten-mile trip and strikes the same face of the wheel that flashed it.

The wheel, however, has moved slightly before the light returns and it strikes at a different angle than that at which it left. It is this angle, calibrated in connection with the known distance and timed speed of the wheel which measures the speed of light.

Dr. Michelson will supervise the tests until Monday, when he will return to his home in Pasadena. Fred Pearson, his personal assistant, and Dr. Francis Pease, of the Mount Wilson Observatory staff, will continue the experiment, which may be completed within three weeks if conditions are favorable. Lengthy computations must be made after the tube tests.

Firm Bids $10,175 To Raze Buildings

Offer Is Made to U. S. for Privilege of Tearing Down Structures.

An offer of $10,175 for the privilege of tearing down two blocks of buildings now occupied by the Potomac Electric Power Co., on B street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, was made to the Government yesterday by the Washington Iron & Metal Co. It was one of ten bids made, all of the others asking the Government to pay them amounts ranging up to $68,900 for the work.

It is understood the firm will get the contract within a few days after the completion of a few formal details. It is the second time during the present building program that a contractor has offered to pay the Government to tear down buildings.

The contract is expected to be let soon, but notice to the contractor to proceed with the demolition will depend on the evacuation of the buildings by the power company. The company plans to move into the new offices at Tenth and E streets before the end of the month.

A solo was rendered by Frank J. Jakubec, of the United States Army Band. Clarence C. Cappel was in charge of the program.

Coroner's Staff Expansion Waits

Crosby Says No Funds Are Now Available for This Purpose.

There is no chance of Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt obtaining a larger force of assistants and better equipment this year, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby commented yesterday upon receipt of the former's report on the findings of the grand jury in connection with the Limerick case. No funds will be available under the new District appropriation for such expansion.

Gen. Crosby had no further comment to make on the report other than to say that it would be submitted without recommendation to the District Commissioners at their semiweekly meeting today.

While stating that he would like to have better autopsy equipment, a clerk, a stenographer, a larger force of deputy coroners and more cooperation between his office and attending physicians and police, Dr. Nevitt said that he believed autopsies should continue to be made at the Morgue instead of at undertaking establishments as suggested by the grand jury.

TRUSTEES OF SESQUI PAY NOVELIST HONOR

Dawson, Attache of U. S. Embassy at Paris, Is Placed on Board.

ACCEPTANCE IS CABLED

Yorktown, Va., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Warrenton Dawson, special attache of the American Embassy at Paris, and internationally known as a historian and novelist, has accepted membership on the board of honorary trustees of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association.

His acceptance was contained in the following cable from Paris to Col. Edwin Conquest, executive secretary of the association:

"Happy to accept election as honorary trustee Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association. Am fully conscious of the privilege in collaboration with this great work for American history and international amity."

Mr. Dawson recently attracted considerable attention with his announcement that he had discovered an eyewitness account of the siege of Yorktown, which had been lost 150 years. The discovery was made while he was searching old papers of Count de Rochambeau in Paris. The account was in the handwriting of Baron Gaspard de Gallatin, an officer of the Swiss Guards of King Louis XVI, and aide-de-camp to Count Rochambeau. AIR MAIL TO RETAIN BOLLING FIELD BASE

Report of Removal Denied by Company; Contract Lately Renewed.

USED FOR NIGHT SERVICE

Reports in circulation here yesterday that air mail activity may be shifted early this spring from Bolling Field to the Washington-Hoover Airport were scouted by E. G. Cross, in charge of Eastern Air Transport here.

He explained that the firm he represents, under contract with the Postoffice Department for air mail transportation, intended to continue the use of Bolling Field indefinitely for night time loading and unloading of mail and that any possible transfer of its activities exclusively to the Washington-Hoover or any other field here within the next few months appeared out of the question.

Eastern Air Transport, he said, several days ago renewed their contract for use of Bolling Field, which has served for almost three years as the night air mail base here under a temporary permit granted by the War Department. Eventually this air mail activity, a commercial enterprise, must be removed from a military field. No steps have been taken by any departmental group or by the air line itself in that direction, he pointed out.

Air mail here during the day is handled at Washington-Hoover Airport, but the menace of scores of wires on the Military road separating the Washington and Hoover Fields makes the latter unfit for night flying.

Responding to Washington's Cry for bread at lower prices, uttered by the U. S. Senate Committee on Food Prices

From the "U. S. Daily" Report on the Senate Committee's Investigation of Food Prices

Frank W. Wheeler, assistant to the president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, testified that his company is making a pound loaf of bread, and selling it at a profit for an average of 5.52 cents. The company's bread is of the highest quality, he said.

Asked by Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas, chairman of the subcommittee, if he did not think prices in Washington, D. C., were too high, Mr. Wheeler said there may be cost factors in Washington which necessitate higher prices. His company has no Washington bakery, he said.

Senator Capper suggested that his company might make bread more cheaply in Washington than present bakeries. Mr. Wheeler said his company is expanding its bakery system and he will submit the suggestion for a Washington plant to his office.

5 cent Bread of highest quality for Washington

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. is now offering its own freshly baked, carefully wrapped

Grandmother's 16-ounce Loaf at a nickel apiece

To meet the situation described by Senator Capper, A&P is sending its own bread to Washington from its own bakeries in nearby cities—delivered a few hours after it comes from the ovens.

AWAITING THE VETO.

Passage of the bonus bill by the Senate was a foregone conclusion. Nothing that was said by advocates of the bill brought out any new facts in its favor. Its opponents laid stress upon the statement that the majority of able-bodied veterans are against the proposal. Senators Bingham and Reed, both World War veterans, suggested that the plan would work hardship upon the wives and children of former soldiers. In case of their death many, if not the majority of veterans, would leave no other resources to their families than the insurance represented by the compensation certificate. The opponents of the bonus bill believe that the temptation to borrow money on the certificates would be too strong to resist, with the result that accumulation of interest would whittle away the balance payable at expiration of the insurance period.

President Hoover has outlined objections to the bonus bill which will doubtless form the basis of a veto message. It may be that he will also throw some light upon the state of the Treasury as indicated by recent tax returns. An enormous shrinkage of income tax payments is to be expected because of the depression of 1930. The Treasury deficit on June 30 probably will be much more than $400,000,000, the amount estimated some weeks ago. The President may ask Congress to make provision for paying the bonus, if it should decide to enact the bill notwithstanding his objections.

The political motive that inspired many legislators to vote for the bonus is too apparent to require comment. Some of them did not favor the bill, but they voted for it in order to win the support of soldier voters. To the extent that this motive actually operated upon legislators who at heart believe the legislation to be unwise their votes were substantially aimed at the use of public funds for private political advantage. This is more reprehensible than the excessive expenditure of private funds to win an election. Every legislator is the keeper of his own conscience in this matter.

Some fear had been expressed that the President might try to avoid direct action on this bill by pocketing it if it should reach him during the ten-day period preceding adjournment. Accordingly the bill was rushed through in order that the President would be compelled to send in his veto or see it become law without his signature. Mr. Hoover's letter to Senator Smoot, however, gave clear indication that he had no hesitation whatever in stating his position. It is not to be doubted that he will act promptly upon receipt of the bill, and that the country will have no difficulty in understanding him. His message will command the attention of every citizen. It may not prevail over Congress, but it will reassure the people that their President regards public office as a public trust.

REAL ESTATE LEGISLATION.

The report of the subcommittee which for two years has been investigating real estate practices in the District of Columbia has been placed before the Senate. The recommendations as well as the findings of the committee are of great local interest.

The committee recommends the enactment of three measures. The first would license and regulate real estate brokers and salesmen, the second would create a "blue sky commission" to regulate the issuance of real estate securities prior to sale and the third would revise the mortgage foreclosure system so as to afford greater protection for the mortgagor and borrower. The first of these measures has been passed by the Senate, but has not yet been acted upon by the House.

The committee finds that a large and probably excessive number of real estate salesmen and brokers are operating in the District without legal regulation or supervision. The licensing of brokers and salesmen, it says, "would give public protection that is urgently needed by substantially reducing fraud and imposition and would serve to protect legitimate businesses and honest realtors." With respect to foreclosures, the committee finds that the mortgagor is given no grace period in which to redeem his property following the foreclosure, nor is he advised in advance that the property is to be taken from him. The committee recommends that a bill be passed providing for 25 days' published notice before foreclosure sale, for a 15-day redemption period and for the limitation of fees, &c. Both for the protection of the public as well as for the protection of legitimate real estate businesses these recommendations should be acted upon favorably.

HOSPITALIZING ALL VETERANS.

So much attention has been given to the controversy over extension of loans to veterans that the public has almost lost sight of the important policy on veteran's hospitalization that is being formed in Congress. The House recently passed a bill authorizing an appropriation of $12,500,000 for the construction of additional hospital facilities. The Senate finance committee yesterday substituted a bill by Senator Smoot calling for the expenditure of $20,877,000. This would provide approximately 6,000 additional beds, and it is anticipated that it would provide all need for hospitalization of veterans until 1935.

This proposed legislation acknowledges an obligation on the part of the Government to hospitalize all veterans in need of medical treatment who are not able to provide it for themselves. Heretofore, only those veterans whose ailments could be traced to their military service had a mandatory right to hospitalization. But the Government already has more hospital facilities than are needed to care for service-connected cases. Only 5 per cent of those awaiting treatment blame their ailments to the war. The new program will definitely commit Congress to a policy of hospitalizing all former soldiers regardless of what their ailments may be.

A tremendous responsibility is about to be undertaken by the Government. It ought to have more careful consideration than was given to the House bill. In the first place, the House reverted to the log-rolling method of selecting places where these hospitals are to be established. The bill itself does not designate the sites, but the report does, and if it were allowed to remain in that form the veterans' administration would consider itself obligated to follow the congressional program. The Smoot bill adopted by the finance committee merely makes the money available and leaves to the judgment of the veterans' administrator and a special board the problem of applying it to the best advantage.

A second disadvantage of the House bill is that it would permit the piling up of benefits for men in soldiers' homes or hospitals. Thousands of veterans and their dependents are drawing disability allowances from the Government. Under present arrangements they continue to draw those allowances even while they are being hospitalized at Government expense. With hospitalization open to all veterans these double benefits would amount to enormous sums. Veterans find that they can live in soldiers' homes or hospitals at the expense of the Government and draw disability allowances at the same time. There is a tendency on their part to abandon the struggle to make their own way in the world. Soldiers' homes are being filled with veterans not yet middle aged.

To correct this situation the Smoot bill provides that allowances to veterans in homes and hospitals be reduced by 50 per cent so long as they remain in such institutions. Veterans who have no dependents would lose the 50 per cent. In cases where veterans have families the allowance would not be reduced, but would be divided between the veteran and his dependents. But in no case would the amount allowed a veteran be diminished below $20 per month.

Indications are that the Smoot bill will be adopted by the Senate within a few days. The safeguards in the Smoot bill against log-rolling and pensioning idleness ought to be adopted along with the new policy of hospitalizing all veterans.

REFORM OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

For some years officials of American colleges and universities have been considering the shortcomings of athletics, while they have done nothing to correct the evils that exist. The overemphasis bestowed upon football is generally decried. Recruiting and subsidization of prominent high school athletes have in certain instances become open scandals. The situation led directly to a Nation-wide study by the Carnegie Foundation, resulting in the famous bulletin 23, which constituted a searching indictment of the college athletic system. Now the University of Pennsylvania has decided to remodel its athletic system. Possibly the decision is a direct result of the Carnegie report.

Pennsylvania plans to abolish spring football practice, preseason training, seasonal coaching, high salaries, special football dormitories, scholarship aid and training tables. "The university," says an announcement issued by its president, "will assume the direct control and management of all matters concerned with intercollegiate athletics, including business and fiscal duties, scheduling of games, purchase of supplies, employment of personnel, training and selection of student managers, maintenance and development of athletic plant, and the coordination of all these items into the general administrative structure." The organized athletic activities of the student body will be reestablished "in the light of their real educational significance." Steps will be taken to minimize the importance of gate receipts. There will be established a new department of physical education "which will assume responsibility for the proper administration and coordination of all the activities now existing—and subsequently to be included—in the fields of student health, physical education and intercollegiate athletics."

This is a sweeping reform. It remains to be seen how it will work out. Pennsylvania has long been one of the outstanding institutions in the field of intercollegiate sport. Its alumni are proud of the prowess of its teams and they might rise in opposition should the new policy result in fewer championships. Under the new system the teams of Pennsylvania will be competing with teams of other colleges trained according to the intensive methods that are now in vogue. Will the Pennsylvania teams be able to meet those of other institutions on equal terms? If not, will Pennsylvania alumni be content to see the athletic prestige of their alma mater sacrificed in the interests of destroying commercialism and promoting a genuine spirit of amateurism? In the American college nothing can survive the active opposition of the alumni.

The University of Pennsylvania is a representative institution. For this reason its experiment is of the deepest significance. If Pennsylvania can destroy the bogey of overemphasis, and establish intercollegiate competition in its proper relation to other activities of the university and college, it will have pioneered the way to general reform.

NO FOOD DOLE NEEDED.

A new sort of dole, one to feed undernourished school children, is proposed by Representative McLeod, of the House District committee. He intends to ask the House to add an appropriation of $30,000 to the last deficiency bill for that purpose. Unfortunately for Mr. McLeod's project, Superintendent F. W. Ballou indicates that there is no need for a food dole in the schools.

Some children attending District schools are unquestionably undernourished. Parent-Teacher organizations and other groups interested in the welfare of school children have taken the responsibility of feeding hungry pupils. Distress in the schools is being relieved in the same way as distress in general, that is, by community enterprise. There is no occasion for appropriating money out of the Treasury to establish a dole in Washington.

Those fellows who were caught running a still with gas diverted so it wouldn't register in the meter ought to have been arrested. No one should be allowed to use gas without paying for it.

TEA TASTING

From the New York Herald Tribune.

There is a great rattling of cups and spoons, an incessant sniffing and tasting this week at the Government appraisers' stores in Varick street. There is considerable boiling of water and rubbing of tea leaves, of anticipatory lip smacking and speculative eye blinking as well, when seven solemn men sit around a revolving table as an admissions committee whose judgments within the year will affect more than 50,000,000 persons. It is the annual tea party of the seven tea tasters of the Federal Government.

Armed with nothing more than hypersensitive palates and an encyclopedic knowledge of the values and overtones of the vintage teas of the world, the tea tasters will sample 500 blends and growth of aromatic leaves during the week and determine the standards which for the next year will govern the admission of all tea into the markets of the United States.

Comparable in their gustatory talents to the French wine blenders who can tell the particular hillslope, and even the vineyard, from which a wine is derived, the tea tasters have assembled from all parts of the country.

To practice their function the tea tasters sit around a table with a lazy Susan top. A number of cannisters of the blend under consideration are placed in the center and minute portions are weighed out on finely adjusted scales. The portions are made into an infusion in fifteen or twenty thin china cups without handles, and from these the tasters absorb the bouquet and flavor on which they base their findings. Rotating the table in a clockwise direction they each sniff the successive cups while boiling hot; then, reversing the motion, they each dish up a spoonful of the fluid as it passes before them.

They sniff loudly and sip noisily, then smack their lips and sniff again. Then they discard it into one of two magnum-size cuspidors, conveniently located for that purpose. The cuspidors themselves are worthy of special note. Standing all of 3 feet high, they are shaped like hour glasses with wide tops and slim stems, gleaming triumphs of the brassmaker's art. The tasters become remarkably adept in using the cuspidors.

Most of the tea tasters have been in training for years for the honor of being one of the Government's seven arbiters of Oolong. A. P. Irwin has been practicing tasting for half a century, and he can tell the difference between a first or a second picking of Bohea green leaves with the ease that Theodore of the Ritz can differentiate between applejack and Chateau Neuf du Pape, '11.

F. D. Stillman brings his own tea tasting spoons to the annual tea congress. Without them he is lost, so far as fine discriminations are concerned, and he carries them carefully rolled in soft cloths in his wallet. One is a long handled spoon with a big bowl, something like a cream soup spoon, while the other is of the variety used in some countries for holding sugar in an absinthe drip and is perforated. Both are of glistening sterling.

Dean of the tea tasters and chairman of the congress is Robert A. Lewis, of Boston. So delicate is his palate that Berry Wall's ability to tell, from its taste, which leg a woodcock had stood on most, would be merest child's play to Mr. Lewis.

"Tea is infinitely better throughout the United States than it was a few years ago," says Mr. Lewis. "A few years ago, when I used to travel around a good deal, it was almost impossible to get a good cup of tea. Now you can hardly get a bad one anywhere."

Smoking, it was disclosed, has no effect on the palate of a tea taster. Six out of seven of the experts in session this week are regular smokers. Nor is it necessary, as in the case of wine tasting, to wash the mouth out with vermouth or some neutral flavor. Tea tasters can go on endlessly without ever burning their palates. In fact, most of them are tea tasters in private life as well as during the time they are drafted by the Government.

Billy Arnold, America's automobile racing champion for 1930, according to the New York Evening Post, says something worthy of consideration by all the motorists of the country. He admits that he does not care to drive an automobile fast on the open highways, because: "It's too risky, with all those Sunday drivers to outguess. Those amateur speed demons who like to tell their neighbors how they 'hit 70,' never had a front tire go out when they were making 50 miles an hour." Thus the gentleman who won last year's big racing event at the Indianapolis speedway declares himself. The speedway, to his notion, is safer than the highway, primarily because the drivers on the speedway know just what they are doing.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

INCIDENT

Said he, profits are low,
I must let some one go,
And he looked all about
As if choosing him out,
Who could best brave the storm,
And not wish to be warm.

"Not that one," he said;
"His wife's ill in bed!
And not he, over there.
He has burdens to bear:
Nor the one I heard say:
'We've a child on the way.'"

He heard the wind roar,
Banging shutter and door;
Saw the torturing sleet
Driving men from the street,
As he walked slow of pace
The full length of the place,

To his desk he returned:
"Though but little we've earned,"
He remarked with a smile,
"We must hang on a while;
I find none to dismiss
In such weather as this."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY dear Louise: I'm glad you regard it as a grave adventure, to be undertaken with fear and trembling, to write a check on your dad in case of emergency.

But I'm equally glad that you feel free to do it when necessary, knowing full well that I'll stand by you if it takes the fur off.

I'm a little suspicious of kids who say, "Charge it to dad." I'm afraid their dad doesn't know about it until he gets the bill. They are spoiled kids, as a rule, who don't know the value of a dollar—who don't know, or care, what a dollar costs dad.

But it's one thing to make obligations in dad's name lightly and thoughtlessly, and quite another, in time of desperation, to think of a way out and compliment dad by taking it for granted that he will back your play regardless.

I've never had much respect for the parent who has a high regard for his duty while it consists in spanking his progeny for their imperfections, and then feels free of obligation when one of them gets in trouble and really needs him.

Turning daughter out into the snow because she went buggy riding with the city slicker never impressed me as the ideal solution of a domestic problem.

I don't expect you ever to do anything much more reprehensible than dodging a trip to the dentist's, but I want you to know that no matter what you do, and no matter what others may say, you can count on old dad to stand by you until the last dog is hung.

Tell me your troubles when you have any, whether they are big or small. I'll lend a hand when I can, and lend a sympathetic ear when I can do no more. That's what I'm for. I'd feel cheated if I thought you were holding out on me and keeping troubles to yourself.

But—and here at last I'm getting to the point of my letter—there isn't anybody else on top of ground who really cares a whoop about your aches and sorrows. They may pretend to, just to be polite; but they have aches and sorrows of their own that are much more real, and the recital of your woes bores them.

Take a look at your acquaintances and you'll discover that the popular ones are those who seem to have no troubles, because they keep theirs to themselves, while the unpopular ones that people try to dodge are chronic beefers.

The one sure way to make friends is to listen to the other fellow's woes and never let him suspect that you have any.

But since a sorrow is cut in half when you share it, remember always that old dad really wants to hear all about it and has a shoulder for you to cry on. Love, DAD.

No Money for the Bonus.

New York Times.

The bill for enlarging payments on adjusted service certificates, which is to be called up in the House today and which is expected to pass, presents itself in a "questionable shape," like the Ghost in "Hamlet." It ought to answer at least two inquiries. One of them is financial. Estimates of the amount of money which the measure will take from the Treasury vary, but even the lowest—the sum of $700,000,000—is declared by Secretary Mellon to be calculated to "damage our whole financial position."

If the bill is to be passed in anything like its present form, it should be accompanied by a new tax to raise the money, or else by authorization of a separate bond issue. The time has passed when Congress can light-heartedly take out of the Treasury "money not otherwise appropriated." No such money is there. In place of a surplus we have a deficit.

The Coming Veto.

New York Times.

Mr. Hoover has now made it abundantly clear that he will withstand this unsettling legislation to the extent of his power. The only question is whether enough sober second thought can be induced in Congress, enough sanity, when wild and whirling words are being spoken in the Capitol, to sustain the veto which is certain to be forthcoming from the President.

An Individualist.

Atlanta Constitution.

President Hoover laid hold of the opportunity of Lincoln's birth anniversary to broadcast to the nation a timely and strong protest against the drift in Federal affairs toward centralism.

Upon his pre-presidential record of speech and philosophy President Hoover was as much of an "individualist" as was Thomas Jefferson. While he was secretary of commerce he published a striking brochure on "American individualism" in which he argued forcibly against all schemes to centralize and paternalize and commercialize this government of and by the people.

His active personal stake in partisan politics of the Republican brand has seemed of late to have modified and diluted those earlier views. But the Lincoln Day speech is, let it be hoped, a determined swing back to his former convictions that the people should make themselves independent of Federal aids and subsidies and confine the general government to the purposes for which it was originally constructed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virginia Farmer Tells of Woes of Egg Producers and Drought Sufferers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I for one don't want any Government money as a loan, and I am urging my neighbors not to borrow on the terms stated. What we need is some laws that will enable us to sell our product at a fair price. Take the egg business, for instance. Recently 437 Virginia egg producers found that the price of eggs was not paying for the hen feed—time, labor, use of buildings all lost. Why should trucks of cold storage eggs—two years old—from Baltimore, come every week to Winchester, Va., ruin the market for native fresh eggs, then buy the fresh eggs at a low price, carry them back to Baltimore and sell for a big profit? I think our legislature should put a tax on all storage eggs not produced in the State.

Our farmers can produce plenty of pure food in the shape of fresh eggs to supply the demand. These storage eggs are not pure food. Fresh eggs are now wholesaling in Winchester for 14 cents a dozen, and they cost 18 cents for feed alone. The farmers can not buck against the Western millionaire meat packers.

The congressional investigating committees summon the wrong witnesses. They ought to call poor men, who would tell true conditions in their class. These are the ones who need help most, and they are the ones who won't get it. All of this talk from rich people, about prosperity being just around the corner, is nonsense. When the farmer gets there he generally finds that he is at the wrong corner. What is there to bring speedy prosperity? There will be no wheat to sell before July. There may not be any then. At present there is enough surface water in the ground to start the wheat, but unless we get some soaking rains, the first hot sun will kill it. Four months after that we may have some corn to sell; and that is a doubtful proposition also. What are we going to live on for the next six months? I have 40 acres of grass; if it turns out that the roots were killed last summer, it will take another year to set that field in hay. Think of good sheep selling last week for 2 cents a pound! Two thousand, seven hundred hens were sold out of my neighborhood in four weeks; no feed. We farmers in the Shenandoah Valley are not beggars. All we ask is a fighting chance, and we are willing to give odds at that. The great (?) Mr. Babson said recently, if people would pay their debts there would be no hard times. He had just as well cut that talk out; Will Rogers has him beat a mile being funny.

Poor Showing of American Consulate at Funchal—Niggardly Government Policy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For an American citizen wintering in the beautiful island of Madeira, it is a matter of regret, tinged with not a little mortification, to observe here, on a national holiday, when the colors of the various countries having consulates are displayed, a proof of the niggardliness of the American Government with respect to its consulates. Where the colors of the Republic of Brazil and the Kingdom of Belgium, to mention only one or two—and largest of all those of Britain—flew proudly and worthily, and were obviously made of the best bunting, the emblem of America, in cheapest, faded material and of insignificant size, was displayed at the end of an inappropriately long staff, thereby heightening the insignificance of the flag, seen at an unimpressive angle!

It may be observed, incidentally, that while the consulates of the aforementioned countries occupy prominent sites on the main esplanade of Funchal, that of the United States is housed in the upper story of an inconspicuous building on a dark side street!

A cheap, small and badly faded American flag to indicate the situation of such consulates is neither in keeping with the strength and dignity of a great nation nor calculated to impress its traveling citizens with the ability of their country to give protection and aid to its nationals.

Democratic Chances in 1932 Will Depend Upon the Candidate—Hoover a Hard Man to Beat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Looking forward to the spring and summer of 1932, when Presidential nominations will be in order, I hope the nominee of the Democratic party will be a man whose outlook is not limited to a congressional district, a State or a particular group of citizens.

By this time next year, as a result of long-continued wet-or-dry squabbling, the country at large may have had its fill of scrambled politics, and the attention of the voters will be fixed on the personality of possible standard-bearers. Only an exceptionally broad-minded Democrat, in my opinion, can hope to make any sort of decent run in the Presidential race of 1932.

There may be much uncertainty as to who is broad-minded and who is not, but the campaign engineers of Democracy may simplify their task with the possibility of good results if they keep in mind the fact that in President Hoover the Republicans have a leader whose consistent stand for Federal integrity and watchful and progressive law enforcement appeals to a promiscuous following of thoughtful citizens.

No matter what well-written planks the Democratic platform committee of 1932 may offer, they will not cut much figure in the vote-getting if the nominee is not a straight-thinking American, unhampered by petty politics.

FEBRUARY 20, 1906.

Secretary of War Taft was the recipient of a great ovation when he arrived in Bay City, Mich., today. In three speeches made in welcoming him, the cry was "Taft for President."

It was feared by District health authorities that an epidemic of smallpox was beginning in Washington. There are seven cases at present.

The division of public buildings and grounds of the War Department is planting flowers and shrubs in parks and vacant Government property in all parts of Washington.

In its report to the District Commissioners today, the excise board stated that Washington is apparently the best regulated city in the United States with reference to the liquor situation. The board did not deem it worth while to discuss the moral phase of the subject, nor the advisability of absolute prohibition. They considered that the provisions of the present law are adequate.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

ONE OF MANY NAMES.

M. H. writes: Will you write something on nevus and the seriousness of such a tumor? It is embedded in a muscle. Would the pressure of tight clothing or a chair back irritate or add to the seriousness of such a growth?

REPLY: If you ask a well-informed beauty specialist what a nevus is, she would say—a birthmark. The surgeon would say a mole and perhaps he might say angioma.

To begin with, it is congenital. The moles that are not angiomas are areas of skin in which there is an unusual pigmentation or sometimes an unusual growth of hair. In some of them the skin of the mole is raised slightly above the surface and is coarse. In others, it is not. The pigmented moles are generally multiple. They are of no special interest except that the beauty specialists say they may make or break beauty; and the pathologists say they are potential breeders of cancer, and one variety is prone to originate a highly dangerous form of cancer.

But you are interested in the form of nevus mole or birthmark which is due to overgrown blood vessels and which the pathologists call angiomas. The angiomas are about as harmless as any abnormality can be. When located on the face they may disfigure. When located elsewhere they do not harm unless their location causes them to be in the way. They are not prone to cause cancer, or anything else unless, as was said, they are very much in the way, like an automobile standing across the road.

If there is any reason to cure an angioma, it can be accomplished by means of tying off blood vessels, by destroying the enlarged vessels with electricity or otherwise. As a rule, the cure is worse than the disease.

Answering the question, "Why a nevus?" is not easy. As a rule, the tissues in which nevus is found are supplied with blood by capillaries. Some people charge Abraham Lincoln with having said, "A man's legs should be long enough to reach from his body to the ground." A capillary is large enough to permit blood cells to pass in single file without crowding. As to size, they are just right for the tissues they serve and the blood they carry. Why the nice adjustment between the size of the capillaries and the need should go wrong in the developing child, resulting in an area of overgrown blood vessels called a nevus, nobody can say.

TEMPERATURE AND COUGH.

F. M. S. writes:

1. Is it possible for a child to run a temperature of 100 every afternoon from diseased tonsils?

2. He also has a bronchial cough. What would you suggest for him?

REPLY.

1. It is.

2. Have your physician see if anything is needed.

DILUTED IN WATER.

L. M. W. writes: Noticed your article that results can be obtained by eating grapefruit juice diluted. Am I right in believing that you mean diluted in lemon or orange juice, or do you mean water?

REPLY.

Water.

Horns to Echo On Monday for Virginia Hunt

Frank C. Littleton Will Entertain on Estate at Oak Hill.

WHEN the huntsman's horn echoes through the Virginia valleys near Middleburg Monday and the hunters come home from the hills, they will be welcomed by a large group, several of them Washingtonians, who have been invited to the luncheon which Mr. Frank C. Littleton will give at Oak Hill for about 250 guests.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will be among those motoring down for the hunt trials and will be among Mr. Littleton's guests. Departing from his usual regime, which embraces quiet days at Oak Hill with little festivity, Mr. Littleton will dispense hospitality on Monday in the grand manner. As host at historic Oak Hill, the old home of President Monroe, which he purchased ten years ago from the Fairfax family, Mr. Littleton can proffer also a delightful background for the entertainment of his guests.

Built a hundred years ago, the fine mansion is in the center of the picturesque hunting country which surrounds Middleburg. Beneath a circle of trees planted by Monroe, guests at the mansion can view the entire course and watch the flying scarlet coats speed over the hills.

Although Mr. Littleton's enthusiasm over the "sport of kings" is boundless, and his farm almost the focal point of the hunting sector, he has entertained only in a small and exclusive way since the death of Mrs. Littleton a year or two ago. But the Virginia hunting crowd knows well the fine house with its historic traditions. The mansion is one reported last fall to have been purchased by the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, as a gift to his daughter, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, of Long Island, formerly Ailsa Mellon.

Mr. Mellon refuted the story, which, however, made "good copy," as the house and surrounding acres are rich in historic lore. 'Tis said that the Monroe Doctrine was written within its walls. On the morning of Mr. Littleton's luncheon fires will crackle beneath marble mantels presented to James Monroe by Gen. Lafayette on his first visit to America after the Revolution.

With the hunt trials set for Monday, the hunting set and numerous spectators will celebrate the anniversary of George Washington's birth, the holiday having prompted Mr. Littleton to entertain. His guests will include many of the hunting set of the Blue Grass section of Virginia.

Around Middleburg English country life has been pretty well duplicated. There, riders such as Mrs. William P. R. Hitt (the former Katharine Elkins) and Mrs. D. C. Sands go in seriously all the year for the sport and both have racing stables and generally enter their horses at the Maryland tracks.

Others owning show horses in Middleburg are Miss Mallory Davis and Miss Julia Whiting, a former resident of Washington. Mrs. John Hay Whitney goes in for the hunts and entertains a great deal during the season. Mrs. Robert Somerville is another devotee of riding, and only recently has been established near Middleburg, where Mr. Somerville has taken an estate.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

The family name "Holmes" (also written "Holms," "Holme," and "Holm") is found in English records even before the time of the Hundred Rolls. It is ultimately of Scandinavian origin. It means "the river-land" and "the low land near the river," and indicates the place of residence of the persons who were first so called. However, there is evidence that in some cases its source is the Old English "holegn" meaning "the holly-tree" and also "the holm-oak." The holm-oak is an evergreen oak with leaves which resemble those of the holly-tree. When the family name "Holmes" is derived from this second source, it indicates an original place of residence near such trees. This name appears to be first recorded in the year 1254. A certain Henry de Holm is mentioned in a legal document of that year. "Holm" also occurs in Southern Germany. Its original German-meaning is "he who lives on the small island."

The family name "Hollins" is derived from the Old English "holegn," and its full significance is "he who lives near the holly-tree." It appears to be first recorded in 1379. An English document of that year mentions a Willelmus del Holyns and a Johannes Holyn.

The family name "Hollis" (also spelled "Hollies") is a corrupted form of "Hollins," and therefore means "he who lives near the holly-tree." "Hollis" does not seem to be found in early records. The change from "Hollins" to "Hollis" is not an unusual one. Similar changes are seen in the forms "Hotchkiss," from "Hotchkins," and "Perkiss," and "Perkins."

The personal name "Phoebe" is ultimately of Greek origin, and may be translated "shining" or "radiant."

Art Interprets the Mode

Gold lacings hold this black velvet tea pyjama to the figure. (A Dah-ray design.)

Paris, Feb. 19.

DID you ever honestly feel like robbing a bank? If you never have come with me to the show rooms of a certain famous French textile creator and look at the new lames which are so delicate and beautiful that you would just have to rob a bank in order to have a dress made of one of them. They're for summery evening dresses and are very different from the stiff, sumptuous lames that are used in winter. Some of them are of gossamer transparency, being woven of chiffon and gold thread, and I was told by the Charming Young Man who was explaining things to me—that Bianchini-Ferier's lames are woven of real gold or silver thread. Which explains why you would have to rob a bank.

An interesting and important group of these new lames are the lame prints in which a printed chiffon has its design picked out in gold or silver. One particularly lovely one was of pale green and gold lame roses on a gold background. Just the ideal thing for your new summer evening gown. (But, oh, try and get it.) I was fascinated by a white chiffon with silver lame stars scattered over it—it reminded me of the costume I wore when I played the Fairy Godmother in Cinderella, as a child. And anything that reminds me of when I was a child wins my ageing heart these days.

And there was also a navy blue chiffon with gold lame coin spots alternating with satin surfaced ones, which was not too dressy for an afternoon frock.

* * * *

A sole, a ribbon and a hunk of thread and an evening around the fire * * * results in a half a dozen new boudoir slippers. They cost you almost nothing, really. And what's much nicer about it each one can match something that you want matched. Anyway, you'd better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make boudoir slippers and just put it aside until you need boudoir slippers or want to make some as gifts.

* * * *

That's the kind of a thing that artists love to sketch and dressmakers loathe. And it's the kind of a thing that men dream about and women envy.

I mean the black velvet pyjama that I designed for you today, with one sleeve huge and lined in gold lame and the blouse of the suit simply tied over onto the other shoulder. It's tied around the waist, too, and with a heavy gold cord, just as the arm is tied * * * and the trousers are allowed to roll over and show their lining, which is gold lame.

I just have to design something like this for you now and then to keep my reputation, now don't I, dahrlings?

* * * *

While other couturiers are featuring embroidery, in little touches here and there deftly done, Mme. Tollmann refuses to follow suit and claims that little dabs of this and that have no place as decoration in the modern woman's wardrobe. She thinks that a woman must wear clothing that is completely in keeping with the times, and if these are spacious and gracious times they shouldn't be occupied in any way, shape or form with trifles.

* * * *

Do look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in Sunday's Washington Post. You'll be interested, we know.

Au revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

This Is Priceless!

WELL, can it be that fathers are coming into style again? What fun if they ever really do! Stern ones demanding to know the intentions of the alleged man who sits seven nights a week in the parlor with daughter in his arms. What a world if fathers ever do decide to take a hand again! What excitement for the boy friends! Never a dull moment with fathers everywhere.

Fathers have been disappearing for some time. Where they go to when daughter entertains the B. F. has been a mystery now for years. Even in small apartments they found some corner in which to hide. And daughter and the heavy date ensconced on the davenport have had the world to themselves. But fathers are looking up. What started it nobody knows. But the boy friends are writing to the papers about it so it must be true. Today two tell their sad stories—and are we tickled! 'Ray for Father!

Dear Frances McDonald: I would like to know whether it is the return to the feminine or what but I have noticed a distinct change in the attitude of parents today toward the men who call on their daughters. In the past six months I have had two very unexpected encounters with this new idea.

In one case the girl invited me to call upon her and finding her more than congenial we were soon spending every evening together. I am fond of the fair sex and consider it a man's duty to compliment and even flatter women. Perhaps I was too convincing. At any rate one night about 1 o'clock we returned from a dance and it being late we did not turn on the light. In about five minutes I received a terrific blow on the back of the neck which almost rendered me unconscious. The girl was terrified and I am convinced had no warning of what was on foot. She too was slapped and ordered to her room. Then, this so-called gentleman asked me when I intended to marry his daughter! I informed him that I had no such idea in mind and he lunged at me. The mother then appeared and urged her husband to "just throw him out and come to bed." I got out without hitting him which I longed to do and have never heard from the girl since. Now I would like to know what it is all about. I have gone with a dozen girls in the past five years and parents were falling all over themselves to be agreeable. Now it is so much for so much it seems.

Only last week the same thing happened. The girl is very attractive and I could have taken to her. But after three weeks her father loomed up from somewhere and demanded to know "what was the idea?" I knew what was coming and was to the door before he could stage his act. I told him plenty, including the fact that his daughter was nothing more to me than a friend and was never forced to entertain me. He came out into the hall to yell after me, which, I suppose, did him some good or other. It certainly did me no harm. The girl wrote me next day apologizing. I never replied. What is the answer? Are men getting scarce and therefore to be grabbed at? Or what?

HARD-BOILED.

And now comes Calvin:

"I am a fellow starting in my profession and not prepared to marry. But believe me today if you even kiss a girl her folks are right on to you. If this keeps up they will be reviving shotgun practice. One of these old bozos had the nerve to tell me he felt like "taking a shot at me for luck." I told him to try it and see where he would land. But what use to argue with such people. The girl bawled and kept saying "He does love me." Can you imagine any modern girl pulling that? Is this a racket or what?

CALVIN.

And of course we do not know whether it is a racket or what it is, but we think it is just grand. Just picture the bewilderment of all the poor sheiks finding their activities supervised by interested fathers. A bad year for great lovers, we say, with fathers prowling about at 1 in the morning, walloping right and left. Perhaps the fathers have decided that the daughters have had their way long enough and that the way was not such a wonderful way after all. Any way, it is one more thing to worry about if you happen to be a sheik who is fond of the fair sex but opposed to the idea of marriage.

'Ray for dad and the voice of authority. Presently kisses will climb back to par! Don't weaken, dad, old dear. Do your stuff and help Cupid out of his slump. Isn't it priceless?

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

OLD-FASHIONED GILLIFLOWER.

STOCKS, correctly speaking. But to my mind the common name of gilliflower which every one knows is much nicer and surely more suggestive of this friendly, old-fashioned garden plant.

While neither gay nor giddy, the gilliflower lends a note of subdued but lovely red, blue, lilac, yellow and pure white to any garden border. Few flowers flaunt more colors and few exhale a more delightful fragrance than does this plant.

The gilliflower is best grown from seed, which can be sown about this time or even as late as March in shallow boxes about 3 inches deep. Cover the seed only very lightly with soil. In fact, use merely enough to keep the seeds from blowing away.

If you are the happy possessor of a hot bed, you may set your box in one corner of it; but if you live in the center of some city, then, in lieu of a hot bed, choose a warm, sunny window for your seed box. Always sow gilliflower seed in a fine, rich, sandy loam.

Keep the seeds damp while they are germinating. Never make the mistake of pouring large quantities of water in the box, or of pouring the water from too great a height as if you do the weight of the downpour will dash the life out of the seeds.

A better plan is to cover them with a few layers of newspaper and water them with a spray from the finest nozzle of a watering can. The water falling first on the paper will gradually filter through and reach the soil without injuring the seed. While germinating the seeds must be kept away from direct drafts but at the same time given plenty of fresh air.

When two or three leaves have formed the plants must be transplanted into new boxes or small pots. Always press the earth down firmly after sowing, else there is danger of its drying up before the roots can get a firm hold of the soil.

About the first of May remove the seedlings to the open border. Be sure, when growing gilliflowers, to keep a close watch out for weeds; these, if permitted to run rampant, will soon make use of the nutritive principles of the soil and as a result your gilliflower will die of starvation.

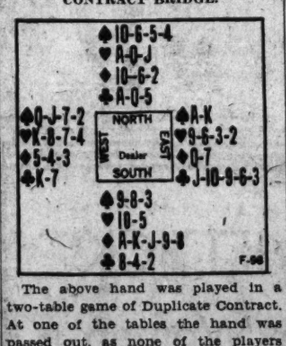
WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.



The above hand was played in a two-table game of Duplicate Contract. At one of the tables the hand was passed out, as none of the players felt strong enough for an original bid; and all of them agreed that the cards had been evenly divided and no score of consequence would have resulted had a bid been made.

At the other table South, who was a firm believer in bidding a five-card suit headed by Ace-King, bid one Diamonds; and after West's pass North bid two No Trumps, as he was justified in doing with a count of 14 and two suits stopped. East passed and South realized that he was not supposed to jump the No Trump to three unless he had more than his one-Diamond bid had shown. All he could claim in excess of the veriest minimum was that he had the Jack-Nine-Eight of Diamonds instead of only three small and some intermediates. However, South felt bold in view of North's jump and counted five Diamond tricks as probable; so he called three No Trumps.

East led the Jack of Clubs, West covered with the King and North won with the Ace. The Declarer now could count two Club tricks, four Diamond and two Hearts for a certainty, with a possibility of one more trick in Hearts and one in Diamonds. The great danger appeared to lie in a shift to Spades by the adversaries; but North had no play other than leading the Ten of Diamonds to trick 2, and on it East played small, as covering with the Queen obviously would be futile. The Ten winning, another Diamond was led, this time taken by South, who, before running the Diamonds, led a Heart so as to have two Heart leads; and North finessed. When the finesse won, the Diamonds were run, followed by another Heart finesse which succeeded. Declarer scored three Heart tricks, five Diamonds and two Clubs—four-odd; and North and South had quite a killing over their opponents at the other table who had passed the hand out.

"PISCES."

IF February 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger period is from 6 p. m. to 8:30 p.m.

February 20 holds out nothing very promising, from an astrological viewpoint. It promises to be unexciting and humdrum, and the signs indicate that the greatest success will be attained by simply "carrying on" without any excursions into the realms of the unknown and untried.

Children born on this February 20 will have more than their share of infantile ailments. Long before the adolescent stage is reached, they will be physically normal. In disposition, they will be sensitive, reserved and capable of deep thought, followed by energetic action.

Those who celebrate their birthday on February 20, are generally congenial companions, loyal friends and affectionate husbands or wives. They have no great aspirations, and, although conscientious workers, will not slip out of their usual routine to do anything out of the ordinary. The signs show that they will be frugal, and, from their early youth, will be always endeavoring to make suitable provision for "the rainy day." They are, more or less, assured of a moderate degree of material success, and this will satisfy them. Not addicted to any special form of outdoor recreation—although evincing a superficial interest in all forms of sport—they will find their chief pleasure in reading light literature, and in social contacts, but never in excesses. They will have a strong religious streak in their "make-up" but never be rigid observers of the ceremonial indicative of the belief to which they belong.

They will radiate, wherever they may be, a goodly measure of contentment. They will mind their own business, and never act the part of "buttinskys." Nothing great can be expected from them nor nothing startling. They will pursue "the even tenor of their way, regardless of circumstances and environment. They will possess a reserve force of character, and a moral sense that will save them from disaster and misfortune.

Successful people born February 20:

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XLVIII.

The Philippine leaders, astute as they were and ingenious in political maneuver, seemed, at times, in their devotion to their one political issue, singularly obtuse to larger considerations. In the midst of their financial humiliation and the internecine political struggle which was blocking Gen. Wood's efforts to rehabilitate the country's finances, Osmena and Quezon, with a third Filipino politician named Rafael Palma, a man of character, intelligence and public spirit, patched up a momentary truce to call upon the governor-general and to ask him what steps he would approve for the extension of Philippine autonomy.

Wood told them that he did not think that the American Government would consider any extension of the autonomy they now enjoyed until the evidences of misgovernment cited in the report of the special mission had been corrected.

"If they would only rise to the level of cooperating vigorously in bringing about a better condition of affairs and putting the government upon a thoroughly efficient basis," Wood told them further, as he wrote in his diary, "they would render the best possible service to the cause of their people and strengthen very much the plea for independence.

"I said that we all appreciate their desire for independence; that it was a worthy one; that I felt that the great bulk of the American people feel that if they were strong enough and well enough organized industrially and from the standpoint of defense to defend themselves and hold their country, there would be little opposition to independence."

He was not unwilling, Wood went on, to consider fully and without presuppositions any proposals which they might make. There were various suggestions in the air. America might withdraw from the islands entirely; or she might retain a naval and military base together with a suitable area for a trade base in the Far East; or again, she might establish in the Philippines a condition of autonomy similar to that in Australia or Canada, with a resident commissioner representing the United States with extensive reserve powers which made his decision practically absolute in case of emergency.

Offers Practical Autonomy.

"You have practically autonomy now," Wood went on, "and if you will only give me men who will be keen and efficient in the discharge of their departments, I shall be very glad indeed to give them a very real autonomy in the administration of them, prescribing only certain general lines of policy. If you'll take hold and make proper provision for the care of your sick, your insane, and your lepers; put your currency on a sound basis; clean up the administration of justice; in other words, establish a really efficient government, then you can say to the United States: 'Here we are with a good, efficient and well administered government. Now what are you going to do about it?' but until the situation is cleaned up it is folly to talk of any further autonomy."

They could not expect the United States to give them further autonomy now, he added, until the wreck of the recent mismanagement had been cleaned up. They were, he pointed out, in the position of a boy who had been started in business by his father and had made a more or less complete fiasco of it, and who, without attempting to clear away the wreck and show some signs of organizing power and the wisdom acquired from experience, was, without accounting or explanation, demanding money for another start.

Politics in Upheaval.

Wood's efforts to persuade the Philippine leaders to correct abuses and get autonomy for a time take care of itself proved fruitless in the midst of political upheaval in which Osmena and Quezon were vying with each other in assurances of devotion to the cause of independence. Osmena decided to lead a mission to Washington to plead with the President. Quezon told Wood that he thought it was a mistake, but that, if a mission were sent, he would have to go with it or raise suspicions of his enthusiasm for the cause. Both men told Wood they did not expect any results from the junket, and neither could explain exactly why the mission should go. Wood pleaded with them singly and together not to expend public funds on a wild-goose journey or by premature efforts for independence to imperil the sale of the new Philippine bonds placed on the American market for the rehabilitation of the Philippine finances; but both men feared the effect of a cancellation of the plan on their personal political fortunes. Let them wait, Wood pleaded, until their house was in order and then go; but he pleaded in vain. Very good, if they must send a mission, let it be a small one, a half dozen leading men at most. But nothing so modest was on the program.

"The people as a whole have not the slightest interest in the mission going to America," Wood wrote Forbes, "but it is apparently going, some 30 people, plus their wives and babies, probably 40, more or less, with a reported per diem of $100 a day, to which must be added the cost of transportation and such public functions as they may see fit to inaugurate while in America, newspaper publicity, &c. It is a rather tragic performance in the midst of a tremendous financial crisis and great business depression. It means a minimum of $250,000, probably a good deal more, and, of course, the inevitable paralysis which results from such an expedition. No one knows what is going to happen. It starts up business unrest and uneasiness."

While the Philippine statesmen were on their way to Washington, luxuriating in daily allowances of from $50 to $90 a person and individual credits for clothing of $900, Wood carried on the arduous and unromantic work of making 11,000,000 people a little more secure in life and property, widening a little more the trails that led to opportunity. He worked in complete harmony with his cabinet and the people he met on his frequent journeyings among the islands left him in no doubt regarding their admiration and support.

Like a magnet the leper colony of Culion drew him again and again. No detail of his life failed to feel the effect of his penetrating sympathy. He improved the rations and chafed because the appropriations would not permit him to improve them further. He invigorated the superintendent, he stimulated the nurses. He gave the lepers, in their wretchedness, the incomparable solace of hope.

The return of the Filipino delegation from its American junket brought a renewal of political unrest. Wood invited Quezon into his cabinet as secretary of the interior and offered Osmena the portfolio of state. Both men were deeply appreciative of the friendly gesture but expressed their preference to stay in the Legislature. Wood suggested Palma, the third in the Filipino triumvirate, for the interior post. He was willing to let the leaders suggest the men they wanted him to appoint, but he must have "good men."

The returns from the midterm elections in the United States, showing substantial gains for the Democratic party, brought immediate repercussions at Manila. The day after the news arrived, Wood received a telephone call from his secretary of justice, Santos, saying that he would like to see the governor general in the presence of the other secretaries. Wood immediately went to his office and found the men assembled.

Gives an Emphatic "No."

The cabinet, Santos stated, had been called together by Quezon in his own office at the City Hall and the question had been raised regarding their duties and their freedom of action in their own departments, and of their realations to the legislature. Wood recognzed instantly that he was facing an attempt to force through the project which lay closest to the hearts of Osmena and Quezon; namely, parliamentary government. He told Santos that the form of government in the Philippine Islands was definitely defined in the Jones bill and would be continued without change or modification.

He had extended every possible courtesy to the secretaries, as they knew, had allowed them the largest measure of freedom consistent with any reasonable supervision and control. The "wretched condition" of their finances and general administration which he had found was due, indeed, to the fact that in the past they had been left to do entirely as they liked, without coordination or direction.

As long as they were secretaries of the governor-general, in official relations they would be responsible to him. Under no circumstances would he tolerate their considering themselves as responsible to the legislature. The American form of government "would be adhered to," he added, "and the British not adopted." He would, as he had told them repeatedly, be glad to have the secretaries called before the legislature at any time to explain the policies of the government or to furnish any information, but he would insist on the right of being informed in advance.

"The whole procedure was so outrageous and impertinent," he wrote in his diary, "that I immediately sent for Quezon and Roxas and said that I wanted to see them with the least possible delay. They arrived, both of them, very much excited. Quezon decidedly so, and apparently very much worried."

Wood pointed out that the secretaries constituted his official family and that Quezon should no more think of bringing them into conference without his knowledge than he, Wood, would think of sending for Quezon's own secretary without reference to him.

"I said, 'Mr. Quezon, I understand that you intimated to the secretaries that I had been guilty of curtailing their rights and privileges;' &c., and so on. Mr. Quezon at once began to explain that protest, but in substance declared that he felt that the policies of the Government should be dictated by the Legislature as embodied in definite laws and acts of that body.

"I told him that the governor general was sworn to carry out the laws, but laws were not generally referred to as embodying policies, and that the governor general had a very important part to play in the policy.

"He said he felt that the governor general and the Legislature should work in harmony. I told him that I also took this view and made every possible effort to work in reasonable harmony and that this act of his was the first discordant note. * * *

"He is evidently out for trouble. * * * One thing is perfectly clear, that it was a bold, impertinent and unwarranted attempt to seize authority which belongs to the governor-general."

People Fond of General.

The atmosphere which Wood created in the government at Manila was, however, not conducive to political strife. Wood was fond of the Filipino people and they were fond of him. The legislators liked him; even the leaders who feared him and resented his determination, admired him; Gen. Aguinaldo, the leader of the insurrection against the United States a quarter century before, was his devoted friend.

Quezon was eloquent in his assurances of support. Did his speeches indicate the contrary? He had, he warmly assured Wood, been "greatly misquoted." He desired nothing so much as peace and cooperation, and to be as helpful as possible. He was conceivably quite sincere. He had an excellent mind and, no doubt, saw clearly enough that in cooperation rather than in strife lay the hope of his people. But his political strength had been built upon the plea for independence, and he had no liking for martyrdom. Wood recorded the conversation in his diary:

"I said to him, 'You are not ready for independence.'

"He said, 'I know it.'

"I said, 'You have now got to find some way of correcting the opinion which you have created among the people, and let them know what the real condition of the country is.' He agreed, but said it would be a very difficult thing to do."

Wood proposed that a series of conferences be arranged at which the Filipino leaders would formulate certain propositions for the consideration of the American Government, both in Manila and in Washington, and thus gradually to create a better understanding by the Filipinos themselves of the actual situation.

"I told him that I had a great interest and sympathy for the Filipino people and I did not want them to start off under conditions which would make failure certain; that I considered that no greater misfortune could happen to the Filipino people than not to realise that many people of the United States regarded the Philippines as a grave liability rather than an asset and that their retention of them was accompanied by a possibility of friction with Japan; that many people of the United States felt we ought to leave them entirely."

The best that could be expected from the American Government in the matter of commercial concessions, Wood went on, would be the terms which the United States had given to Cuba, and pointed out what a desperate struggle it had been to secure those terms from the American Congress.

"Of course, what you want to do," Wood said, "is to consider the real interests of the people—not have them curse you a few years hence as a false prophet and leader."

Actress Who Left Gilbert Back Home

Edna Best, Jovial, Happy Again, Joins Husband in New York.

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Edna Best, stage star, who got so lonesome for her husband that she quit Hollywood and a movie career to join him, got to his side in New York today and was happy again.

She arrived from out of the West to find a husband so bent on welcoming her that he almost missed a matinee performance.

He—Herbert Marshall, a leading player in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"—dashed by taxi and afoot for the Henry Miller Theater after meeting her and got there just in time to get on stage as the curtain rose. Presently, still out of breath, he took pen in hand and sent a note offstage saying:

"Miss Best arrived today and will remain in New York with me. She wishes to say nothing beyond the fact that she had no trouble with the executives nor any complications.

"She was just lonesome. She didn't feel she could do justice to her part in the picture feeling as she did."

Miss Best wasn't in sight. She went from her train to her husband's hotel. Both she and Mr. Marshall are English stars, who have been favorites on the New York stage.

She left Hollywood abruptly Sunday night and another actress was substituted for her in the film in which she was playing opposite the dashing John Gilbert.

KEEP YOUR TEETH

Sound and Healthy

OVER THE RADIO, and in the newspapers, you are constantly hearing of the important part that diet plays in maintaining sound teeth.

One of the simplest ways to assure yourself of sound teeth is through balanced diet. Such a diet should include plenty of milk, together with leafy vegetables.

And calcium is absolutely vital to good teeth. Doctors and dentists tell us that far too many people fail to get a sufficient supply of this essential element. Milk furnishes about four times as much calcium as any other single food. For children, plenty of milk is imperative. For by the time a child has reached twelve, the permanent teeth have been formed. Be sure your youngsters drink at least a quart a day.

And help your dentist by eating balanced meals—including plenty of good country milk. There is no better, purer milk on the market than that from the World's Model Dairy Plant . . . Chestnut Farms. Our service is prompt and dependable. Call Potomac 4000.

Business and Professional Women

TODAY, women are appearing in many phases of life previously closed to them and the necessity for perfect health becomes more and more marked. They cannot afford to lose time or neglect appointments on account of illness.

The pains and general misery which many young women experience may, in almost every instance, be entirely prevented or overcome by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tones the general health. Usually headache, backache, nervousness and other consequences of womanly weakness disappear.

A little attention to these details early in life has saved many a young woman years of suffering at more or less regular intervals.

Girls, give this Prescription—once used in active practice by Dr. R. V. Pierce—a trial. All druggists—fluid or tablets. Then if you feel the need of medical advice, write the Faculty, Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., using the symptom blank found wrapped around the medicine and receive, free, a diagnosis of your case.

One woman who has used the Prescription tells her friends this:

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was given to me when I was around 16 years of age, suffering from functional disturbances. I was terribly nervous and emaciated, when the family physician recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took six or seven bottles of the 'Prescription' over a period of several months and developed into a normal, healthy girl."—Mrs. Helen Rumpf, 23 E. Fifth St., Frederick, Md.

AGED INDIAN WOMAN CONFESSES MURDER

Details on Stand Killing Man's Wife to Ward Off Witchery.

TRIANGLE PLOT CHARGED

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Nancy Bowen, 63-year-old Indian woman, told on the witness stand today how she killed Mrs. Clotilde Marchand nearly a year ago, "that I might live a while longer and the rest of my relatives might be saved."

Testifying at the second trial of Lila Jimerson, Cayuga Indian woman jointly indicted with her for the murder, the feeble, old Indian woman calmly narrated the details of the killing which the State contends was instigated by Lila.

The events leading up to the slaying became, as Nancy told them through an interpreter, a confused medley of superstitious, peculiar happenings and beliefs in witchcraft.

Witchery Is Claimed.

She testified that when she became ill in February of last year Lila told her she had been bewitched by Mrs. Marchand, the "white witch," and unless something were done to remove the spell Nancy would die. A chicken ran around in circles on the Jimerson farm and then dropped dead.

"Lila told me," Nancy testified, "the chicken was bewitched and crazy, and we would all go crazy unless I kill the white witch."

On March 6, Nancy's testimony went on, she was brought to Buffalo by Lila, who the State is attempting to prove, desired Mrs. Marchand's death so that she might continue her intimate relationship with Henri Marchand, the woman's husband, for whom she had posed as an artist's model.

Hammer Is Used.

Nancy went on to tell how Lila left her at the door of the Marchand home a short time before the murder was committed. She told of striking Mrs. Marchand over the head with a hammer and of stuffing chloroform-soaked paper down her victim's throat "because I had been told that would finish her."

Then she washed her hands, left the house and later rejoined Lila, she said. The younger woman, in the meantime, according to testimony at the previous trial, had been driving about the city with Henri Marchand in his car.

Nancy told her story simply, paying little or no attention to the close attention accorded her by the crowded court.

Americans at Rites For Trapeze Artist

Copenhagen, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Lillian Leitzel, internationally known circus performer, were held this afternoon in a chapel crowded by members of the American colony and other friends of the star and her husband, Alfredo Codona, himself a trapeze artist.

Miss Leitzel died of injuries received when she fell nearly 50 feet during a performance at a theater here. The body is to be cremated and her husband will take the ashes to California.

BOLIVIAN CAPITAL DECORATES WALES

Prince and Brother Given Condor Order on Trade Tour Visit.

THRONGS HAIL BRITONS

La Paz, Bolivia, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales and his royal party reached this capital at 2:37 o'clock this afternoon, after a trip last night and this morning over the beautiful waters of Lake Titicaca.

The British group left Puno, Peru, yesterday afternoon in a lake steamer bound for Huaqui, Bolivian port at the opposite end. From Huaqui they had a rail journey through the Andes to La Paz.

After arrival at the palace, Provisional President Carlos Blanco y Galindo decorated Wales and his youngest brother, Prince George, with the Grand Order of the Condor of the Andes. Acclaiming shouts resounded through the presidential palace from the street, where thousands had gathered to watch the arrival of the English visitors.

"These decorations symbolize your passage through our land, after having crossed the high peaks of the Andes," said the president. "The government and the people of Bolivia wish to signify in this manner the deep affection they feel for your royal highnesses."

The Prince of Wales, speaking Spanish, replied:

"I am highly honored by this decoration."

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 19.

Only definitely determinable losses are deductible. Prospective losses are not allowed as a deduction. If a person, other than a dealer in securities, purchased stock of a corporation during 1930 at $105 per share and if its value at the end of the year dropped to $85 per share, he will not be permitted to deduct the loss because of the shrinkage in value. If he had sold it during 1930 at $85, the loss of $20 would be deductible. If during 1930 it was definitely determined that the stock was valueless, a loss of $105 would be deductible.

A dealer in securities may use the inventory method to report his income, for the reason the stocks and bonds held by him are not investments but constitute his stock in trade. Any shrinkage in value of the securities held by a dealer will be reflected in his inventory.

A taxpayer, other than a dealer in securities, can not deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the sale of stock or securities, if within 30 days before or after such sale he has acquired (other than by bequest or inheritance) substantially identical property. This provision is designed to prevent a taxpayer, in computing net income, from claiming as a deduction a so-called "loss" sustained from a sale of securities, which is immediately followed or immediately preceded by a purchase of substantially identical securities.

Gain or loss, however, is realized in the case of a "short sale." A taxpayer owning 100 shares of the X corporation, who purchases another 100 shares and within 30 days thereafter sells the first purchased stock, can not deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the transaction; if he sells the entire 200 shares, a gain or loss from both transactions is thereby realized at that time; and if he sells the stock included within the second purchase, a gain or loss is realized.

CONGER'S GREAT FINISH BEATS KELLER BY INCHES

Chisox Lack Seasoned Infield

Kamm and Cissell Only Experienced Infielders Listed.

Pitchers, Catchers and Outfielders Are Fairly Strong.

(This is the last of a series of articles detailing the efforts of American League clubs to strengthen in preparation for the 1931 season.)

CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

MANAGER—Owen Bush. Coach, Michael Kelly.

PITCHERS—Lyons, Thomas, Faber, McKain, Moore,* Frazier,* O'Shaughnessy,* Intlekofer,* right handers; Caraway, Braxton, Welland, Barbour,* southpaws.

CATCHERS—Tate, Grube, Berg, Henline, Siegel.*

INFIELDERS—Kerr, Kamm, Cissell, Mulleavy, Jeffries,* Appling,* Ryan,* Willingham,* Goff,* Radcliffe.*

OUTFIELDERS—Reynolds, Jolley, Watwood, Fothergill, Finlator,* Eichrodt,* Blackerby,* Simons.*

*New men.

No one knows just how the Chicago White Sox will shape up when the 1931 American League season opens, as there have been rumors of trades in which Chicago might participate. Barring such trades, a tentative line-up would be Radcliffe, from the Southeastern League, on first; Gregory Mulleavy, tried at short last season, at second; Luke Appleby, from Atlanta, at short, and Bill Cissell or Bill Kamm at third.

That will leave John Ryan, late of Holy Cross; Irving Jeffries, optioned to Toledo last year; Goff, a third baseman from the Piedmont League; Willingham, a third baseman from Dallas, and Johnny Kerr, with the Sox for two seasons, to scrap for the utility berths.

The trouble with the infield named above, however, is that aside from Cissell and Kamm there is not a seasoned player listed. Some 22 years ago, Connie Mack went places with three kids in his infield, Collins, Barry and Baker, while a year or so later he added still another, McInnis, at first base. It might be wisdom to use Kerr on second. Johnny went great guns with the stick last year until injured late in the season.

Donie Bush has the makings of a hard-hitting outfield. In fact, with Carl Reynolds, Smead Jolley and Johnny Watwood on hand, he should not have to worry much, although it is admitted that Jolley is not the best fly chaser in the business. The big fellow, however, can, does and will hit. Watwood also can be utilized at first base, where he played for two months in 1930. Bush, however, prefers him in the garden.

New outfielders acquired by Chicago are Fred Eichrodt, of New Orleans, formerly of Cleveland, a fair right-hand hitter and fielder; Bob Finlator, purchased from Selma, and Mel Simons, a great prospect recently gotten from Louisville. As Bob Fothergill still is on the roster, it would be no surprise if Finlator were sent out on option for a year, as he has had less than two seasons of professional experience. Hoffman has been recalled from Indianapolis and Blackerby from Birmingham.

The Sox have plenty of catchers. There is Benny Tate, installed as first stringer last season; Frank Grube, purchased from Buffalo; Moe Berg, out of the game in 1930 because of an injured knee, and Walter Henline, veteran National Leaguer, purchased from Toledo.

Chicago is strong in pitchers; that is, if Al Thomas, who had a lame arm the greater part of the 1930 campaign, shows the effectivness he did at the close of the season. In addition to Thomas there are Ted Lyons, Pat Caraway, Urban Faber, Garland Braxton, Harold McKain and Victor Frazier, who should be relied upon. Jim Moore, purchased from Little Rock, practically is the only rookie pitcher, aside from Frazier, who declined to report last year. Bob Weiland will be back for another trial.

If Simons lives up to his Louisville reputation as a seasoned outfielder who can hit, they will show an improvement over 1930.

Ban Johnson Near Death After Blood Transfusion

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The condition of Byron Bancroft Johnson, for many years baseball's dominant figure, grew steadily worse tonight while Mrs. Johnson rushed toward his bedside from her home at Spencer, Ind.

A blood transfusion was performed today, but it was followed by a chill, and attendants at St. John's Hospital, where the veteran baseball leader has been confined since January 26, said his condition had been more unfavorable tonight. Earlier in the day his condition had been reported as unchanged.

Since last night the former American League president, who is 65 years old and has been in poor health for several years, has been unable to recognize friends. He is suffering from diabetes and what his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, described as a general breakdown. Only recently he underwent an operation for the removal of a toe.

Mrs. Johnson left Spencer, Ind., today and was due to reach her husband's bedside sometime tonight.

CARDS DOWN BALTIMORE, 36 TO 34

Losing Streak Ended as C. U. Scores in Last Minute.

AFTER one long lean month, during which they dropped nine successive decisions, the Catholic University Cardinals crashed the victory column last night by defeating the Baltimore University Five, 36 to 34, in the last five seconds of a hectic game in Brookland Gymnasium.

A pot shot by Jim Hanley, star of the game, decided the issue and sent 250 home rooters into a delirium of delight. The shot climaxed a thrill-packed second half that saw the invading team come from far behind to tie the score at 34 to 34.

Catholic, in the first half, unloosed a potent attack, featured by Hanley's shooting, and while running up 25 points held the Baltimoreans to only 4.

Reamer, Kramer Star for Visitors.

The Cardinals wilted as Kramer and Reamer, of B. U., ran wild during the first fifteen minutes of the second chapter. It seemed that nothing could stop the Orioles in their devastating rally, but Hanley proved heroic to dispel the Brooklanders' fears.

In a preliminary, the C. U. Freshmen trounced Baltimore's yearlings, 57 to 10.

The Bison quint of Howard University last night in the university gymnasium, defeated the Golden Bulls of Johnson C. Smith University, of Durham, N. C., 31-19. The Bisons led from the start, the score was evened once in the first half, mainly by the efforts of Avant, Tarheel forward, who proved the individual star of the pasttime.

Taylor for Howard, and Syphax, played a steady game, and were the leaders of the Bison offensive. In the preliminary, the faculty of Shaw Junior High School was defeated by a Howard faculty team, 14-4.

Tilden Beats Kozeluh in 3 Sets

Foreign Star Bows, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1, at Baltimore.

Big Bill Shows Flash of Temperament; 3,500 Crowd.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 19.—Set in a scene such as tennis has rarely been afflicted with—Carlin's Green Palace, a dance hall upholstered in the sort of green one associates with gastric disorders—Bill Tilden and Karel Kozeluh performed the second of a series of matches for what M. Jacques Curley has termed the world's professional championship here tonight.

It took the Philadelphia Geranium precisely 43 minutes to dispose of the rubbery Czech, 6—2, 6—4, 6—1, before 3,500 fans. This time concurs nicely with Mr. Curley's time limit placed on his feature tussling matches.

In the semiwindup J. Emmett Pare, a former Hilltopper and once national clay court champion, won one set at 6—2, and lost one set at 7—5 to Francis T. Hunter.

Tilden went easily from the opening serve on to the end. His forehand, not usually severe, carried with it the thrust of a wheel sprung loose from the Twentieth Century Limited.

Kozeluh Rallies Slightly.

Kozeluh rallied slightly in the second set, but never enough to check the deluge of decisive shots that streamed off the racquet of the giant bull of the canvas court world.

It was a cautious match from start to finish and, both crept off the court rather guilty after the close of the second.

The postwind-up saw Tilden and Hunter combining to defeat the other two active stockholders on the Tilden tennis tour, 6—4, 6—4. Tilden's much-advertised temperament was displayed to the 3,100 patrons but once. Early in the first set certain uncouth cameramen ignited their flashes in the very eyes of the former champion. Tilden glared at them in a body, but they were not careful readers of the sport pages and so did not know the significance of a Tilden glare.

Tilden Stops Play.

At the next flash Tilden stopped play, uprooted the loose-lipped Jack Curley from a comfortable roost in a courtline box and threatened to quit the Baltimore engagement cold if another flash resulted. Curley, the great man himself, left his place and brought his renowned diplomacy to bear upon the lensmen.

Altogether it was a democratic and sociable event, with souvenir programs sold during the most hallowed moments of the match, and the French Ambassador's daughter munching a succulent hot dog.

5,000 See McMillen Win in Mat Feature

In the feature bout of the best wrestling card at the Washington Anditorium last night, Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, threw Tiny Roebuck, Cherokee Indian, former all-American tackle of Haskell Institute, with a series of flying tackles and a body slam, after Tiny's right shoulder had been put out of commission.

Extended to the limit more than once, McMillen required 53 minutes to turn the trick. McMillen weighed 215, Roebuck 243.

In the semifinal bout, "Doc" Wilson flattened Nick Nestor after 28 minutes of rough going. Vladek Zbyszko won his match against a substitute opponent in 15 minutes and Milo Steinborn put the quietus on Joe Gans in 6 minutes of clowning. Olsen and Poggi drew in the 15 minute preliminary and Matros Kirelenko held Dick Shikat, former champ, to a 30-minute draw in one of the most interesting bouts on the program.

A crowd of 5,000 packed the auditorium.

Takoma Firemen Win In 3 Extra Periods

Three extra periods were necessary to decide a heated battle last night between Takoma Volunteer Firemen and the Mercury basketers. The Firemen won, 27 to 26, when Dantzie heaved a field goal in the final extra session while the Mercs caged only one foul. The score was 20-20 at the termination of the regulation game.

Barry, by Knockout, Donovan's Prediction

"It will be curtains for Smallwood," spoutery Patsy Donovan remarked yesterday when asked for an unbiased opinion as to the outcome Saturday night on the Rockville he-night card of the much-discussed bout between Reds Barry, Mohawk Club battler, and Joe Smallwood. Donovan, who, of course, is manager of Barry, went on to say that Smallwood will wax horizontal somewhere between the sixth and tenth rounds.

A large delegation of Barry's fans from Southeast are journeying out to Rockville for the occasion, led by Rob Roy (Silent) Mackay.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

KING JOHN, the father of Henry III, succeeded his brother Richard the Lion Hearted to the throne. One day, after a reign in which his every action increased his unpopularity with his subjects, he was nearly drowned, and his death followed immediately after from the effects of eating fruit and drinking cider. As soon as the news of his death reached the nobles, they joined together and made John's baby, Henry, king, crowning him with his mother's bracelet.

HELEN HICKS VICTOR IN FLORIDA

Diana Fishwick, British Star, Beaten in Semifinals.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Helen Hicks, the strapping young American girl who wallops a golf ball with masculine strength and power, scored a brilliant triumph today over the blonde little British champion, Diana Fishwick, in the first major international match between the rival women's forces now concentrated on the Florida front.

They met in the semifinals of the Florida women's championship tournament, over the course of the Palm Beach Country Club, and a fashionable gallery of fully 1,000 men and women braved the rain to watch Miss Hicks score a decisive victory, 6 and 5.

The match ended in an almost complete rout for the youthful British girl.

Miss Van Wie, who yesterday shattered the Palm Beach course record with an astonishing 72, only four over men's par for the 5,744-yard layout, was victorious over Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, in the other semifinal match, also by a score of 6 and 5.

MARYLAND U. CUBS WIN ELEVENTH

G. U. Freshmen Bow, 41-24; Chase and Vincent Star.

FOR the second time this season, the Maryland University Freshmen basketers scored over Georgetown's yearlings by annexing a 41-24 decision yesterday at College Park. The Georgetowners played without several of their best men, as was the case in the earlier clash. It was the eleventh straight for the winners.

Led by Spencer Chase, former Business High ace, and Rufus Vincent, product of Hyattsville High the Maryland Cubs gained the lead within five minutes after the start and remained on top until the final whistle. At intermission the score was 22 to 9.

Chase and Vincent divided scoring honors, each accounting for six field goals and one foul point. The honors for the Hilltop freshmen were captured by Connors and Sullivan, each scoring a pair of fielders and a trio of charity tallies.

Both sides frequently made use of reserves.

Track Judges Divided on Decision

French Star Takes Lead Near Wire in Thriller.

Two Competitors Are Left Far Back by Pair of Stars.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Paul Keller, France's 800-meter champion, was defeated once again in his American campaign tonight but it took Ray Conger's brilliant last lap kick to turn the trick in the 1,000 meter invitation event at the New Jersey A. A. U. championships.

Keller, running his third race on American boards, swept past the long-striding Conger one and one-half laps from home and then battled America's premier miler shoulder to shoulder as Conger let loose with his famous bell lap sprint.

Fifty yards from the tape the Frenchman appeared to have Conger beaten and his first American victory in his grasp. But Conger lengthened his stride, let out another notch of speed and pulled out in front by inches. Keller countered with a burst of speed that again put him on even terms, but Conger managed to breast the tape inches in front of the French champion.

Conger Returns To Form.

Running as if to atone for his unexpected defeat by Carl Coan in Madison Square Garden Monday night, Conger set out in front as the gun started a field of four. Keller had learned his lesson, however, and with a liberal use of his elbows swung into second place.

Robert E. Boise, jr., of New York University, and William Cox, of the New York Athletic Club, were left far to the rear. The time for the 1,000 meters was 2:33 1-5 seconds, six and three fifths seconds slower than Lloyd Hahn's record of 2:26 3-5.

The decision of the judges created much argument among the spectators, who ran to the finish line as Conger and Keller battled down the home stretch. After going into a huddle, the judges of the finish announced that three thought Conger won, while two favored Keller.

Ben Franklin Plays Columbus U. Tonight

By defeating Columbus University in their Washington Intercollegiate Conference League tilt tonight at the Tech High Gym, Benjamin Franklin University tossers can clinch the league title. Action will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The preliminary attraction between the United Typewriter Five and the Clovers occupies the spotlight with the league game. The United team is made up largely of Montrose A. C. players who last year copped the unlimited class championship of The Post's A. A. U. tour-ament, while the Clovers recently captured the 1931 Community Center League title.

A second Washington Intercollegiate Conference League tonight will bring together the Bliss Electrical School and the Southeastern University basketers at the Silver Spring Armory, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Stewart and French Fives Clash Tonight

Bolstered considerably by the addition of Warren Hayes, Stewart Brothers Photographers will meet the French five in an Independent League clash tonight at the Silver Spring High School, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow night the Stewarts meet the strong Polish-American quintet, of Baltimore, 1930 champions of the Baltimore Catholic League. The attraction is billed for the Silver Spring Armory, to start at 8:30 o'clock. Silver Spring High and Hyattsville High will tangle in a preliminary attraction, which will get under way one hour earlier.

MIDDLE WEST STEALS FISTIC SPOTLIGHT FROM EAST

Illinois Tops Section in Crowds

271,784 Fans Paid Over Million for 1930 Shows.

Commission's Strong Rule Has Aided Ring Game.

(This is another of a series on the condition of boxing throughout the country.)

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

Illinois, for example, where Gen. John V. Clinnin heads a State athletic commission that rules with an iron hand, celebrated 1930 with boxing receipts totaling $1,104,591, the contributions of 271,784 contented customers. On the basis of indoor shows alone the big Chicago Stadium, capable of seating over 20,000 spectators, shoved Madison Square Garden, in New York, from the spotlight as fistiana's ruling house. The arena average 13,155 persons to a show, for average gate receipts of $46,948. Although the Garden staged more matches, its figures were much less imposing for 1930, and since that time the house that Rickard built has been shaken to the foundation by depression.

Billy Petrolle and King Tut battled before $38,000 worth of customers in St. Paul recently. Twice-a-month shows in Minneapolis are showing steady profits. Indianapolis, Des Moines, Grand Rapids, Milwaukee and other cities are turning out regularly to view the firsticuffers. In fact, in Milwaukee three clubs have been able to keep operating at a profit.

Commission Rules With Iron Hand.

There seems to be no secret formula for promotional success through the Middle States belt. The Illinois commission has refused to sanction poor matches, has ridden the boys in brisk fashion and is enforcing the rules, particularly the one that provides that no purse shall be paid contestants whose match ends in a foul.

Business depression had an adverse effect in Detroit, where prices were slashed to 50 cents and $1.50 for cheaper shows and $3 for the better ones as an added lure to bringing the customers in. But with the motor workers heading steadily back to jobs, business is looking up again.

Cleveland, in former years one of the best boxing towns in the country, has staged two major shows in recent months. One of them, however, gave Tommy Freeman chance to win the world's welterweight crown from young Jack Thompson, while the other turned $19,000 profit into the city's Christmas charities.

Poor matchmaking has helped to spoil things in St. Louis and the arena has been losing money while the wrestlers performing in the Coliseum have been doing nicely. The receipts have held up in St. Louis, however. A cut in ticket prices brought out attendance of 73,042 for the last four months of 1930 and gates totaling $94,255 compared with 45,386 customers in the same period of 1929 and $85,267 in receipts.

Just the opposite happened in Kansas City, Mo., during the same period. Attendance fell off from 36,638 to 27,767, while income receded from $63,559 to $40,338. Though the State of Kansas, boxing, legalized in 1925, fell off in 1930, with 104 shows staged compared to 125 in 1929. Attendance dropped from 87,000 to 82,000.

PURPLE FIVE CONQUERS SWAVELY

Nolan's Scoring Is Feature as Gonzaga Wins.

GONZAGA HIGH'S courtmen gained revenge in great big gobs yesterday when they swamped Swavely Prep, 55 to 36, on the I street floor. Tommy Nolan, the Purple's left forward, went on a scoring spree to account for 25 of the winner's points.

Some time ago Swavely defeated the Purple by 1 point, but yesterday the game was never close except in the early moments. At half time Gonzaga led by 27 to 17. Nolan was outstanding throughout, making shots from all angles and positions.

Swavely managed to stay in the proceedings as well as it did by dint of clever marksmanship at the charity stripe. The visitors cashed in on fourteen of seventeen chances.

8 Days Remain to Enter Post Basket Ball Tourney

WITH the February 27 deadline but eight days away, teams which expect to compete in The Post's fifth annual A. A. U. basket ball tournament to be held at the Tech High School gymnasium, starting March 9, are asked to submit entry blanks as soon as possible.

Players in the 100, 115 and 130 pound men's class and the two women's divisions also must be properly registered by the District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U. by that date.

Team entry blanks already have been mailed to the managers of those clubs who have signified their intentions of entering the tournament. These blanks must be returned properly filled out to the sports department of The Post. Entry blanks are available at The Post.

An entry fee of $2.50 is required of all teams in the 145-pound and unlimited men's classes and the two women's divisions, while a fee of $2.50 will be paid by clubs in the 100, 115 and 130 pound men's classes. These fees will accompany team entry blanks.

The time limit for player registration for teams in the 145-pound and unlimited divisions has expired, but players who competed in those classes in the 1930 tournament have until February 27 to reregister.

Applications for registration may be submitted to William E. Russell, chairman of registration, at 1503 North Capitol street or to the sports department of The Post. Registration blanks also may be secured from either of the above.

The usual registration fee of 25 cents is waived in the cases of those players 15 years old or under. All other players must pay this fee.

HITTING the HEAD PIN

LOCAL pin fans are anxiously awaiting the first five-game block of the intercity doubles attractions between Jack Whalen and Bradley Mandley, of Washington, and George Von Dreele and Andy Zeller, of Baltimore, which is carded for tomorrow night on Lonnie Krauss' Columbia drives.

Von Dreele is the ranking bowler of the country; Mandley is ranked fifteenth; Whalen is the winner of the recent United States Sweepstakes, and Zeller is considered one of the outstanding pinmen in the South Atlantic section. No wonder the fans are getting all "het up" over this encounter, which promises to be productive of the liveliest sort of action.

The second five-game block of this match will be rolled next Monday night at the Recreation Alleys in Baltimore.

Eddie Rommell one of Connie Mack's star hurlers, will roll with the Regent Try-Me Team, of Baltimore, tonight in the United States championships at Convention Hall. This afternoon he will compete in the singles and doubles.

He can make the necessary arrangements, he will participate in the special Knights of Columbus Sweepstakes, which will feature tomorrow night's program. Rommell belongs to one of the Casey councils in the Monumental City.

Parkway Filling Station rollers climbed to within one-half game of the pace-setting King Pins by taking all three games from Meyer Davis in their National Capital League encounter last night at Lucky Strike. The Parkways had no easy task subduing their opponents, as the Musicians put up plenty of fight before bowing by the narrow scores of 560 to 552, 532 to 521 and 554 to 548.

A 360 set by Red Morgan featured the Parkway triumph, while Toomey was high for Meyer Davis with a 351 set and a 137 game.

Maryland went into undisputed possession of first place in the Intercollegiate Alumni League by taking the odd contest from Lehigh, while Dartmouth was dropping all three to Navy last night at Rendezvous. Cornell whipped V. P. I. in all three games, Princeton bowed twice to V. M. I. and Brown trounced Yale in two games in the other league matches.

Hoover, Peoples Drug Stores pin star, crashed out a rousing 426 set for a new Commercial League season's record in individual games last night in the Convention Hall drives. His total played a large part in the 2-to-1 triumph his team scored over C. & P. Telephone. The other league encounters resulted as follows: Woodward & Lothrop, 3; Carry Ice Cream, 0. Chestnut Farms Dairy, 3; Wadrex Ice Cream, 0. United States Daily, 2; Diamond Cab, 1. John H. Wilkins, 2; Washington Herald, 1.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THERE is much speed in the Coconut Grove Handicap, which features the Hialeah Park card today, five horses making up the field for the 6-furlong dash, every one of which has run the distance under 1:12. PENNANT LASS, top weight with 118 pounds, is selected to win. This mare of A. W. Wentzel's won her last start last Saturday in 1:11 2-5, with 115 pounds, finishing a length in front of Angry. She was always good on this track and is back in best form. There is no reason why she should not repeat.

G. D. Widener's SCATTER won in sensational fashion Wednesday, but takes up seven pounds over that race, but against less aggressive company than did PENNANT LASS. ELLICE, which is coupled with Jack Howe as the J. C. Ellis entry, appears best of the others.

FIRST RACE—SUN MEDDLER seems to be the class of this race, which is a sprint for 4-year-olds and upward. He is a beaten favorite and that is not a drawback in the light of almost every day reversals of form now marking the Miami racing. JAR, a frequent winner of last year, may be the contender.

SECOND RACE—PLUM RUN has beaten the best ones in this field and should do so again. She was an easy winner over Suntica last out, and the latter had previously earned brackets over a very good field.

THIRD RACE—MARY DALE has an ordinary field to beat. STRONG TACKLE probably being the most dangerous of the contenders. Though a flop last out, two races back MARY DALE was third to Light View, and has a weak field to overcome today.

FIFTH RACE—CROSSBONES appears decidedly best. He was second to Swinfield, a "wake-up" horse, Monday, and it was a fast race, 6 furlongs in 1:11 1-5, with CROSSBONES coming from fourth to second in the stretch, and as this is a mile it will give him a better chance.

SIXTH RACE—MYNHEER, winner in his previous race over Servid in 1:11 3-5, should repeat in the sixth event. IN BETWEEN is the most dangerous of the contenders, but has had little racing recently.

SEVENTH RACE — WOOD GAIN should have another chance, and is selected to score here. He was third to Candy Pig this week, beaten three lengths. He has no such horses to beat in this event. His New Orleans form makes him best.

PIN TOURNEY LEADERS CHANGE

Hyattsville Girls Top Class; Mischou, Farnan Star.

THE Hyattsville Arcade Girls quintet and the Columbia Heights Men's League five, in the team matches, and F. Mischou and E. Farnan, in the singles and doubles, provided the outstanding features in the National Duckpin Bowling Congress' United States Championships, last night on the Convention Hall drives.

By virtue of their 1,415 total for three games, the Hyattsville pinnettes displaced the Alexandria Health Center Girls, who previously had held down first place in the women's division with an aggregate of 1,403.

The Columbia Heights quintet shot a 1,654 total which was good enough to land them second place, 32 pins behind the Nautical League Club in the men's team.

Frank Mischou, with a 360 effort, took the lead in the men's singles.

Franan and Mischou compiled a 682 total to assume first place in the men's doubles.

M. Barrett, with a 300 set, and T. Sanders, with a 297 effort, led the Hyattsville Girls, while Bernhardt's 356 set was most prominent for the Columbia Heights aggregation. McNey, of the Heightsmen, shot a 139 game which was high for the night.

SLOW STOCK PRICE GAINS SPURT LATE

Pronounced Rallies in Steel and Related Issues Are Felt in Final Hour.

FEW SPECIALTIES JUMP

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The stock market saved its best efforts for the last hour today.

There was a slow upward movement during the morning and early afternoon, with rather pronounced rallies in steel and related issues, but the rise frequently seemed labored and the volume tapered off. In the late trading, however, activity increased and prices found their best levels of the day. Net gains averaged a little more than 2 points.

Reports that some of the steel plants, chiefly in Ohio, were expanding operations to handle orders from the Automobile manufacturers figured largely in the market's display of confidence. In commodities, the nonferrous metals—copper, silver and lead—strengthened, the first named going to 10¼ cents accompanied by trade talk of higher prices in a few days.

The comparative ease with which substantial profit taking has been absorbed this week also regarded as a motivating factor in the final spurt. It is reported that some large interests have been selling during the rally, apparently with the idea of preventing bullishness from getting out of hand, and also that the short interest has not been entirely convicted of the present market's durability. But resistance to declines has been obvious and many professionals have been content to ride with the rising tide.

American Can and United States Steel were leaders, the former rising 4 points to a new 1931 high and the latter 3. Marked strength developed in the Republic Steel issues, Otis, American Rolling Mill, National Steel, Pressed Steel Car, Vanadium, Bethlehem Steel and Electric Auto-Lite, up 1½ to 4 points. Metals showed to the best advantage in some time. Anaconda, Kennecott and International Nickel closed 1¾ higher.

International Telephone was heavily bought, advancing 2 points. Stone & Webster had an early rally, despite the dividend cut, but lost its rise. Rails and oils remained sluggish, although Union Pacific, Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central gained 1 to 2. A few specialties, as usual, outstripped the slower movers. Worthington Pump's advance amounted to 7 points, while Case held 4½ of a 5½ rise. Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical closed more than 3 higher. Best & Co. made a 5½ point climb of which it held 2½. Total sales of 2,500,000 shares were the smallest in two weeks.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Production of sheet steel during January increased to 45.1 per cent or rated capacity, as compared with 39.8 per cent for December, the National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers reported today. Total production for January was 167,865 net tons, compared with 145,125 tons in December. Unfilled tonnage as of February 1, however, showed a decrease to 360,479 tons, as compared with 378,601 tons as of January 1.

The rechristening of the Prince & Whitely Trading Corporation as the Phoenix Securities Corporation as another step in the severance of its ties with Prince & Whitely, investment banking firm, now in receivership, was approved by the stockholders at a special meeting.

The Kansas City Southern Railway, one of the first roads to report January earnings, showed net railway operating income last month of $413,808, compared with $459,217 for January, 1930.

The gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for the week ended February 18 showed imports of $4,285,000 from Argentina, $1,100,000 from Uruguay, and $91,000 chiefly from other Latin-American countries. There were no exports. Gold earmarked for foreign account showed a decrease of $2,500,000 for the period.

Dow, Jones & Co. says the outlook for steel mill operations in the Youngstown district next week favor a slight increase and it is possible that mill schedules will move above the 50 per cent level for the first time this year. Fluctuations in schedules of the smaller sheet manufacturers may be the determining factor. An increase in pipe-making activities in the area is likely in the near future.

Myron E. Forbes, former president of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car Co., will become vice president in charge of finance of Oliver Farm equipment. He also was associated with Deere & Co. in various executive capacities from 1911 to 1918.

The Perfect Circle Co.'s production schedule has been decreased 100 per cent in the last fourteen days, C. M. Teetor, president, said. He added that although this increase does not bring the three plants up to their full capacity, it does indicate a decided trend toward better business, and that the company anticipates a steady and increased flow of business throughout the year.

In a letter to stockholders of Richfield Oil Co., of California, Henry L. Doherty Co. announced that further offers of Richfield common in exchange for Cities Service Co. common stock would be accepted only in numerical order in which received and subject to the time and amount limitation of the exchange offer. Under this offer one share of Cities Service would be given for four shares of Richfield to a total of 500,000 shares of Richfield, until February 25.

More than 10 per cent of the voting power of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad is held by the Reynolds-Barney interests, the annual report of Reynolds Investing Co., Ltd., disclosed today.

A pronounced improvement in business conditions in a large section of the territory served by the operating companies of New England Public Service Co. is reflected in that company's increased output of electric energy for January, which shows an increase of 16 per cent over January a year ago, according to figures made public today.

E. J. Kulas, president of Midland Steel Products Co., said today that operations for March will be at the highest level in nearly a year. Production is being stimulated by the increase in automobile output and the resulting expansion in releases for frames and brakes.

R. S. Wilson, vice president and sales manager of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., today told a district sales convention of the company that the bottom of the business depression was reached last November and that he believed there would be a steady gain in business this year.

BOND BUYERS ALERT AS PRICES INCREASE

Improvement Is Noted in Inquiry for Domestic Corporate Issues.

SOUTH AMERICANS REACT

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Bond buyers displayed a little more interest in the market today, activity expanding as prices rose.

The improvement in the inquiry for corporate domestic obligations was even better than the total sales indicated, for it was accomplished in the face of a sharp shrinkage in United States Government trading. In many recent sessions the Government list has been very lively, contributing more than usual to the total turnover. What little trading was done in Governments today was at rising prices, advances ranging from 1-32d to ¼ of a point.

With few exceptions, the most highly rated issues were unable to retain their small fractional gains, and closed about steady. Most of the strength was displayed by second-grade issues that received some impetus from the strong tone of the stock market. Central of New England 4s, Burlington obligations, Rock Island 4s, Michigan Central 3½s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Northern Pacific 6s B, Frisco 4s A, Southern Railway general 4s, were well bought and gains ranged as high as a point. Some of the second-grade utilities and industrials participated in the upward movement.

St. Paul 5s of 2000 dropped more than a point following announcement directors had deferred action on the interest payment, but met good support and closed ⅜ higher on the day. The turnover in the issue was unusually large, amounting to more than $500,000 par value.

The weakness of Australian bonds and the strength of German governments represented the two extremes of the movement of foreign dollar bonds. On top of a sharp reaction yesterday, Australian 5s and 4½s dipped 5 points, and Queensland bonds were off 2 and 3.

German 5½s advanced 1¼ to within a small fraction of their best level of the year, and the 7s reached a new maximum at 102⅜. Sao Paulo 7s were largely offered, and reacted 1½ points. Other South Americans were irregular.

BANKING INSTITUTE CONCLUDES COURSE

American Classes for 1930-1931 Show Gratifying Achievements.

FEDERAL REPORT ISSUED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has concluded the first half of its educational program for 1930-31 with gratifying results, according to Aubrey O. Dooley, chairman of the chapter's educational committee.

At the beginning of the school year, he reported, the committee anticipated a decrease in class enrollments, primarily because financial institutions have had few changes in personnel during the past fifteen months with a corresponding reduction in available new students.

Furthermore, a substantial number of bankers have completed courses and effective this year, tuition was charged for all classes. These factors, combined with general conditions, fairly well indicated that the peak in student enrollment was reached a year or two ago and a gradual decline in number of students must be expected during the next few years.

Two New Courses.

But in spite of this, by introducing two new courses in the curriculum, offering training in specialized subjects not heretofore available through the chapter, the committee brought about class enrollments for the fall term totaling 369, or 2 more than last year. There were 291 of this number enrolled in banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, economics, credit and investments courses and 240 of these successfully completed courses with ten special examinations this week.

The class conducted by Anna T. Renshaw for bank women is just completing its work and results are not yet available. The class in debating under Dr. George Farnham will continue until the latter part of April.

Final grades for the semester show class averages from 85 to 94 per cent, the distinction of achieving the highest average of 94 per cent going to Dean Raymond B. Dickey's class in commercial law. Indications are that the chapter will have this year the lowest student loss in its history.

Chapter officials are gratified over the progress thus far made in the second semester's work. There are 295 enrollments in all classes, bringing the total for the year to 664, only 15 less than last year. These figures will be augmented when the advanced class for bank women begins its work next week and confidence was expressed that last year's record of 679 enrollments would be equalled, if not excelled.

The lecture course in real estate, taught for the first time this year, is proving very popular and has attracted a large enrollment, including several senior bank officials. The chapter's program for the year embraces eighteen classes in twelve subjects, a faculty of twelve members and in addition several associate lecturers in the real estate course, which is under the direction of John A. Petty, executive secretary, Washington Real Estate Board. Not only are local bankers taking the chapter's course, but students are also enrolled from Indian Head, Laurel and Hyattsville, Md.; Alexandria, Fairfax and Vienna, Va.

High Tribute Paid.

Chairman Dooley paid high tribute to the excellent work of the faculty of Washington Chapter, saying it occupies a foremost place among the institute's teaching staff, numbering more than 1,000 instructing more than 45,000 bank men and women.

The Willard Hotel will be headquarters for the Central Atlantic States Bank Management Conference, to be held February 26 and 27.

Rail Directors Defer Bond Interest Action

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad today deferred action on the semiannual interest payment on the adjustment mortgage bonds, payable April 1.

The bonds are entitled to cumulative interest at the rate of 5 per cent annually. There are $182,000,000 of these bonds outstanding.

Bill Rates Raised Again by Bankers

Second Advance Recently Noted as Stringent Conditions Relax.

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—Further relaxation of the stringent conditions that existed in the bill market for several weeks brought the second advance in a week in dealer's rates on banker's acceptances here today.

Leading dealers announced they had advanced the rates on all maturities ⅛ of 1 per cent, or ¼ of a per cent above the all-time low, established last month. The new rates are bills up to 90-day 1⅛ asked; 1¼ bid; 120 days 1⅜ asked, 1¼ bid; 150 and 180 days, 1⅜ asked, 1¼ bid.

Seasonal demands for currency which have begun to develop, brought a larger volume of offerings from banks and tended to narrow the wide spread that has existed between the supply and demand. The previous advance, also ¼ of 1 per cent, was announced Saturday.

Cuban Manganese Site Is Bought by Americans

New York, Feb. 19 (A.P.).—The Freeport Texas Co. announced today it had purchased a controling interest in the Cuban Manganese Corporation, owning extensive manganese deposits about ten miles north of Santiago.

Eugene L. Norton, president, said the company planned to erect a plant in Cuba to treat 1,000 tons of ore a day by newly patented processors recently perfected. The announcement said the acquisition might solve the problem of insuring the American Steel industry of a nearby supply of manganese.

CONFEREES AGREE ON APPROPRIATION BILL FOR DISTRICT

Measure, Calling for About $45,800,000 Outlay, Is Back to Congress.

WEBSTER KINDERGARTEN MOVE IS COMPROMISED

Elimination of Proposed Addition to Park Police Favored.

The expected quick agreement between House and Senate conferees on the District appropriation bill was reached yesterday and the agreement reported back for approval by the two legislative bodies.

This approval will be given, it is expected, without delay and the measure sent to the President for signature carrying about $45,800,000, exclusive of special and trust funds.

There was no argument over the $9,500,000 Federal appropriation, nor over the injunction that District real and tangible personal property taxes should not be reduced next year. These provisions were agreed to.

Senate amendments which were agreed to by the House representatives included provisions of $120,000 for the Janney School, extending a roadway in Rock Creek Park from Beach Drive to the District line, where it will connect with a new Maryland road, $37,000; $15,000 for the payment of mothers' pensions.

The conferees struck out of the bill the Senate amendment providing $100,000 for expenses of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission; the Tydings amendment for widening Seventeenth street northwest from Pennsylvania avenue to H street; and for grading Eastern avenue from Bunker Hill to Queens Chapel road northeast and for six additional park policemen.

The much fought over Webster School kindergarten, conducted in connection with the Americanization School, was compromised. The House prohibited continued acceptance of underage children in the kindergarten. The Senate permitted their acceptance. The compromise provided for employment of a matron to care for the underage children who were brought to the kindergarten while their mothers attended the Americanization School.

The idea that there should be one police force in the District persisted in conference and elimination of the proposed addition to the Park Police force was agreed to with the thought that District police could take over policing of small parks and triangles now under the police protection of the park police.

(Associated Press.)

The last of the eleven appropriation measures received House approval yesterday, when the second deficiency bill carrying $59,133,194 emergency needs was passed and sent to the Senate.

Besides providing $23,668,000 for veterans administration to meet disability allowances for veterans, the bill fixed the maximum cost of more than 300 public buildings aggregating $69,940,000. Initial work on the buildings will begin in the next fiscal year under the $60,000,000 carried in the regular $1,100,000,000 Treasury-Postoffice supply bill.

The appropriations covered a wide range of Government activities, the bill being designed to care for urgent needs of all departments.

Detective Is Assigned To Patrolman's Duties

Detective Sidney H. Miles, of the Sixth Precinct, who was suspended several days ago after he is alleged to have tried to tear a dress from a woman in a hotel lunchroom, has been reduced to a foot patrolman and detailed for service at the Eleventh Precinct.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt yesterday issued an order on the change. Miles, who was on duty at the Union Station, will face a trial board tomorrow.

Other changes ordered by Maj. Pratt yesterday were: Patrolman Karl O. Speiss, of the Traffic Bureau, to foot patrol duty at the Harbor Precinct, and Patrolman F. J. Adams, of the First Precinct, to the Traffic Bureau.

1,000 De Molay Men Expected Here Sunday

More than 1,000 members of De-Molay chapters throughout the country are expected in Washington on the fourth annual pilgrimage, held each year at Washington's birthday. The Robert Le Bruce Chapter, of Washington, is making the arrangements and will act as host.

The schedule for the visitors includes a service at the National Cathedral on February 22 and a trip to Mount Vernon, Arlington and Alexandria on the 23d. That night there will be basket ball games in the McKinley Technical High Gymnasium between teams from Baltimore and Fredericksburg, and Norfolk and Washington.

Police Radio Aids Maryland Police

Lookout Phoned by State Policeman Leads to Arrest Here.

Cooperation between Washington and Maryland police in the use of the new police radio resulted yesterday in the capture of a man who is being held for Maryland authorities.

County Policeman Ralph Brown telephoned a lookout to the police radio station here for the driver of a car suspected of carrying liquor after the machine had outdistanced the policeman. The lookout was broadcast to Washington police cars, who soon made an arrest on North Capitol street.

The arrested man gave his name as William J. Christian, colored of Pierce street near North Capitol street. Although no liquor was found in his car, he is being held for the Maryland police.

Woman, 93, Is Struck by Auto.

Although her condition was pronounced not serious several hours after she was struck by an auto at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday, Marion DeLoss, 73, of 1440 W street northwest, remained at Emergency Hospital to be treated for shock. According to police, the machine was driven by John R. Payne, 19, of Sherman avenue, Takoma Park.

KELLEHER PAROLED, EFFECTIVE MARCH 4

Federal Board Approves Plea of Man, Sentenced in Gambling Case.

IN JAIL SINCE JUNE, 1929

John B. Kelleher, confined to the District Jail since June of 1929, was granted a parole, effective March 4, by the Federal Parole Board.

President Hoover turned down an application for pardon filed by Kelleher in December, in which the petitioner pleaded that his aged mother was seriously ill.

A check for $7,500 left at the District attorney's office at that time by Mrs. Kelleher, covering the amount of the fine imposed when he was convicted, has never been withdrawn.

Kelleher's trial attracted widespread attention, marking the first important conviction for gambling in the District. He was found guilty on six felony and seventeen misdemeanor counts June 12, 1929, in connection with a raid on a house on H street northwest in 1926, and sentence was imposed three days later by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy.

He was sentenced to eight years and nine months imprisonment on his conviction in the District Supreme Court. Again brought into court in November, 1929, Judge McCoy cut the sentence to five years.

"Budd's" Owners Ask Receivers

Dissolution of Partnership Sought by Members of Ice Cream Firm.

Attorneys Alvin L. Newmyer and Edwin C. Dutton were appointed receivers of "Budd's," 1781 Columbia road northwest, yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Jesse C. Adkins shortly after Graham H. Budd, one of the owners, had asked that the partnership be dissolved and the receivers be appointed. Budd's requests were consented to by his sister, Maude E. Budd, who was co-proprietor of the business with him.

Budd, in his petition, said that the business, which is profitable now, can not continue to prosper because of differences of opinion between his sister and himself. The appointment of receivers, he contended, will be for the benefit of all concerned, including creditors.

The Budds also operate a branch store at 3301 Connecticut avenue northwest. Accompanying the dissolution and receivership petition was a schedule of the company's assets and liabilities. The partners, who dealt in ice cream, pastry and the restaurant business, have assets of $181,871.82 and liabilities of $136,498.29, according to the schedule.

McLeod Bill May Pass In Deficiency Measure

The McLeod bill providing for free food for undernourished children in District schools may be enacted as an amendment to the second deficiency appropriation bill.

Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, author of the bill, is anxious to have the measure enacted at this session and is determined to seek whatever vehicle affords itself to carry his measure through. The McLeod bill, fought for by John J. Noonan, and other civic leaders, has the formal indorsement of the leaders of welfare and business activities of the city.

POLICE SEIZE FOUR AS RUM PURVEYORS

Two Cars Confiscated as Containers of Alleged Liquor Are Taken.

PHONE CALL TRAPS MAN

Four men were arrested, two automobiles and 3 gallons and 3 pints of reputed liquor were seized by police last night in actions against alleged bootleggers.

The first arrest was made by Detectives J. K. Baker and T. C. McVeary, who arrested Leslie A. Gooding, 33 years old, of Sixteenth street near R street northwest, when, they charge, he delivered a pint of liquor to them in response to a telephone call.

Rocco Pisano, 24 years old, of Newton place near Georgia avenue northwest, and Victor Peary, 28 years old, of Lamont street near Georgia avenue northwest, were arrested by Detectives R. A. Williams and H. G. Bauer, who said they took the men in custody as they drove up to deliver 2 pints of gin. Their car was confiscated.

Another car was seized by Third Precinct Policemen R. E. Talbert and William McEwen, who said they saw Edward Taylor, 35 years old, of Twentieth near G streets northwest, drive his car into Lee's court. The police seized 3 gallons of liquor, they said.

Kerosene Put Into Fire Burns Washington Man

A sheet of flame which burst from a furnace when he poured kerosene upon the fire sreiously burned G. W Whitlow, operator of a filling station on Fourth street near C northeast, last night. Taken to Casualty Hospital in a passing car, he was treated for burns on the face, ears and hands.

No damage was caused to the filling station, which was not ignited by the blaze. Mr. Whitlow, who is 34 years old, lives at 426 C street northeast.

Young "Chemists" Send Fumes Wild

Fire Rescue Squad Called and Eases Worries of Dwellers.

Many are the vicissitudes that clutter the path of science as a group of local embryo "chemists" will testify.

Last night dwellers in an apartment house on Clifton street near Thirteenth street began to detect acrid fumes emanating from the lower part of the building. Scant attention was paid at first. Later the fumes became more persistent. Then Fire Rescue Squad No. 2 was called to obviate some possible disaster.

Gas-masked and equipped for any contingency, the lads of the rescue squad plunged into the lower recesses of the apartment house. Over in a corner of the basement they found a collection of phials and test tubes, several of which had been broken and their contents spilled and from this spot came the noxious odors. Investigation developed that a group of school boys, either living in the apartment or nearby had been performing laboratory experiments and some miscalculation had resulted in the uncontrolled gases disturbing the apartment occupants.

The identity of the would-be chemists could not be ascertained.

Indignant Woman Refuses Honest Driver's Refund

Diogenes would have found his man had he wended his way with his lantern to the First Precinct station last night.

Thomas H. Collins was down there telling police how his taxicab passenger between Eleventh and F streets northwest and Grosvenor lane, which is above Bethesda, Md., paid him $13.50 too much at the end of the ride and wouldn't the minions of the law please try and locate her so he'd not have to go all the way back.

Collins said that when they reached the destination, his neatly dressed passenger, who was rather young, gave him three bills after declining his offer to turn on the tonneau light so that she could see more clearly their denominations. The charge was $2.50 and he gave her 50 cents change.

The driver himself did not examine the currency closely until he reached the District line coming back. Then he saw she had given him a ten, five and one.

But the passenger thought differently. When Collins succeeded in reaching her by telephone, she was highly indignant and insisted that she gave him three one-dollar bills. The driver, his fingers clutching the juicy $13.50 tip, then offered no further objection.

IMMINENT CONVICT LABOR USE ON LEE BOULEVARD SCORED

Fresh Criticism Is Drawn to Virginia Commission on Highways.

CREW ALREADY SENT TO BEGIN ON PROJECT

Director of Contractors Denounces Step as Uneconomical.

Imminent use of convict labor on the Lee Memorial boulevard leading into the District yesterday drew fresh criticism to the Virginia State Highway Commission. Chairman Henry G. Shirley parrying the thrusts with a statement from Richmond.

Road contractors have been requested to use Virginia labor, but there is nothing in the law which gives the commission power to make its use mandatory, Chairman Shirley wrote Thomas R. Mechem, of Clarendon, chairman of the Arlington County relief committee, who had protested employment of convict labor on the "route 711" project.

"A convict camp already has been sent to this job and should be located there shortly," Mr. Shirley wrote Mr. Mechem.

Meantime Edward J. Harding, managing director of the Associated General Contractors of America, denounced the step as "uneconomical, reactionary and in the present stress, inhumane."

Asks for Opposal.

Mr. Harding called on the board of county supervisors and the people of Arlington County to oppose the change in the interest of unemployment relief and the social welfare of the county.

He wrote a letter to Chairman Shirley criticizing the commission's action as "difficult to understand" and requesting that the commission "reverse its stand."

"Surely the great Commonwealth of Virginia is not ready to commit itself to a policy that the employment of convicts is of greater importance than the employment of its deserving, law-abiding citizens," he wrote.

In a statement made public from Washington headquarters of Associated General Contractors Mr. Harding declared establishment of prison labor on the project will deprive at least 100 free and unemployed workers from jobs "and will turn loose upon the county roads some of the State's most undesirable element."

His contentions were supported by W. R. Richards, an engineer and a member of the county's zoning commission.

Fallacy of Hurrying.

"The fallacy of increasing and hurrying appropriations to relieve a serious unemployment problem and then permitting the work to be carried on with the use of convict labor should be at once apparent to every one," Mr. Harding declared.

"In regard to the work itself, neither a quality nor time guarantee can be given under the prison labor system, and its economies are open to question."

He challenged the commission to produce any instance in which prison labor operations had been proved to be more satisfactory or as economical as those conducted by a responsible contractor.

Chairman Shirley wrote Mr. Mechem that improvements on route 21, Lee highway, are to be put under way very shortly, and will be done by contract.

"We are requesting all contractors to use Virginia labor, and especially local labor, where work is to be done," he said. "But there is nothing in the law which gives the commission the power to make this mandatory."

Police Case Is Lost By Justice Stone

Man Accused by Jurist Is Not Reckless Driver, Jury Decides.

Associate Justice Harland F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, lost a case in Police Court yesterday when a jury, after brief deliberation, decided that Alvin Jackson, 20-year-old Negro, was not guilty of reckless driving.

Justice Stone, whose car was in collision with Jackson's on S street near Connecticut avenue last month, was the principal witness against the defendant.

Several weeks ago when the case was first called, the defendant took advantage of a recent decision of the Supreme Court which permits persons charged with driving recklessly to have a jury trial. At this time Justice Stone, appearing in court, was curtly ordered to "find a seat" by an attache who did not recognize the jurist.

THE ONCE OVER

NEWS FROM THE WINTER RESORTS.

PINEHURST, N. C.—Geoffrey T. Kraut has arrived here to spend a fortnight in the sandtraps.

Halloway D. Hammerhead and golf bags were unloaded from the 9:10 train this morning. If an abundance of fancy clubs means anything, Mr. Hammerhead's game should be pretty fair.

Hilary Plunkett, who came here to get away from business through a little golf, has left to get away from golf through a little business.

Lucius X. Shores and slice are here for the month.

T. Carper Willetts, well-known business man golfer, is making quite a nuisance of himself here on account of breaking 100 for the first time and regardless of the fact it was on the ladies' and misses' course, Mr. Willetts likes Pinehurst with its four 18-hole courses because no matter where his ball lands it is almost always on one of the links.

Mr. and Mrs. Shrewsbury Peet are here with new sets of clubs, which will probably not make much difference in their game, as it is humorously called. The Peets always play golf together in order to perpetuate the conviction that they are unhappily married.

PALM BEACH.—Proof of the fact the country has been through a serious business depression is supplied by the fact many magnates are here this year with their own wives. Better times are ahead, however.

Quite a sensation was caused on the beach today when a young woman appeared in a modest bathing suit and no pajamas.

Some support to the statements that business has turned the corner was furnished here last night when Maj. T. Graham Gadingwich, who has been two miles off shore in his yacht all season, brought it to the dock today where anybody could attach it if he wished to.

A disturbance was caused at one of the smart gambling clubs last evening when a stranger tried to bet two quarts of apples on the red.

Complaints are pouring into the Better Business Bureau here indicating that various Washingtonians have been victimized in a grape wine producing racket in which fake salesmen have been gleaning a golden harvest on money-in-advance payments.

E STREET TERMINAL DENIED TO CAR LINE

MAY HALT MALL PLANS

The petition of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. for permission to establish a terminal at Eleventh and E streets after it is forced to abandon the present depot at Twelfth and D streets was denied yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission. The action of the commission was expected and the application was considered as more or less of a gesture on the part of R. L. May, owner of the line.

While no announcement was made by Mr. May, it was understood that the matter may be taken to court unless the District Commissioners press a bill in Congress intended to pay $200,000 from District and Federal funds as compensation for abandonment of the line within Washington.

As only about eleven days of the current session remain, the measure will have to be sent to Capitol Hill within a few days if it is to be considered. It must also go before the Budget Bureau before the Commissioners act.

Should Congress take no action to pay for the tracks in the Mall Triangle before it adjourns, the Federal building program might be temporarily delayed by court order as Mr. Mry has been told by the Treasury Department to clear out his equipment by April 1.

The utilities body yesterday also denied the petition of the Blue Ridge Transportation Co. to move its terminal from 406 Twelfth street to 1338 New York avenue because of the congestion already existing at the latter point.

Death Reveals That Woman Was Descended From King

The death of Mrs. D. W. Reavis, 82 years old, at the Washington Sanitarium, February 16, brought to light the announcement that she was a lineal descendant of both King William IV of Holland and Roger Williams, the founder of Rhode Island. She lived, until her last illness, on Willow avenue in Takoma Park.

Following the funeral services, which were held in the Takoma Park Seventh Day Adventist Church Wednesday afternoon, the body was shipped to Battle Creek, Mich., for burial. Her husband was unable to accompany the funeral party to the place of interment because of severe illness.

Mrs. Reavis' grandparents came to what is New York City in 1633 from Holland, and owned property, which is now located in the heart of the financial district of that city, including the site of Trinity Church. Many suits are now pending in New York courts on the part of family heirs. Mrs. Reavis' father was John Roger Lewis, a direct lineal descendant of Roger Williams.
